Declares 'Syndicate' Tried to Get $200,000 Ransom After Killing Business Man.

REVEAL OTHER CRIMES

Suspects Confess Two Other Abductions, FBI Chief Says; Face New Grilling.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The mystery of Arthur Fried, young business man who vanished 11 months ago, was cleared today with the disclosure by J. Edgar Hoover that Fried was kidnaped, held prisoner four days, then shot to death and cremated.

Hoover, in a dramatic statement last night, laid the death of Fried, 32, head of a Bronx sand and stone company, at the hands of a four-man "kidnap syndicate" which tried for weeks afterward to collect a $200,000 ransom.

The chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said "certain ones" of the quartet also had confessed they collected $14,900 in two hitherto unrevealed Brooklyn kidnapings and said they are under suspicion in two other kidnap cases and three holdups.

Burned In Furnace.

The men, Hoover said, shot Fried to death in a lower east side apartment and burned his body in a furnace.

He named the suspects as Demetrius Gula, 30, a pinball operator; William Jacknis, 27, a WPA playgrounds instructor; John Virga, 34, a clothes presser, and Joseph S. Sacoda, 27, now in Sing Sing for parole violation.

Hoover said all four had police records and would be turned over to local authorities for prosecution. They were arrested over the week-end.

Victims in the two Brooklyn abductions were Benjamin Farber, 33, a coal dealer, and Norman Miller, 19, son of the head of a stevedore concern.

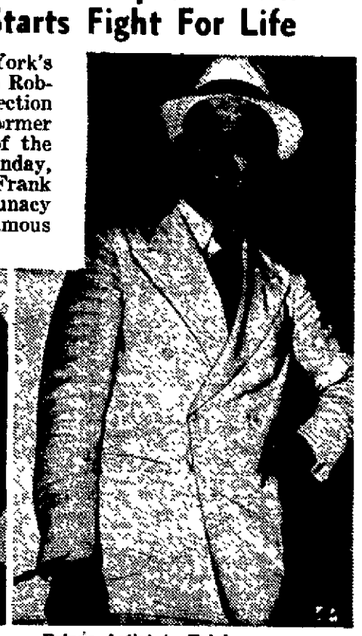
Paid $1,900 Ransom.

Hoover said the kidnapers seized Farber last April 18 in front of a Brooklyn branch of the National City bank and released him unharmed shortly after his family paid $1,900 of a $25,000 ransom demand.

Young Miller, he said, was kidnaped last July 24 as he left a Brooklyn theater and freed within 24 hours when the father paid the gang $13,000. It was the youth's memory of his experience that enabled G-men to trace the gang.

The F. B. I. head refused to name the other kidnapings in which the men still were being questioned.

MURDER OF THE ARTISTS' MODEL



NEW YORK—A sequel to one of New York's strangest murders will be written tomorrow when Robert Irwin, "the mad sculptor," goes on trial in connection with the murder of the artists' model. Irwin, a former divinity school student, has confessed all three of the murders that shocked the nation on Easter Sunday, 1937. But he is being tried for only that of Frank Byrnes, the boarder. Irwin, called sane by a lunacy commission, is defended by Samuel Leibowitz, famous criminal lawyer. Here's the story:

The Murder of the Artists' Model . . . The artists' model, Veronica (Ronnie) Gedeon, arrived at her Beekman Hill home after Irwin had strangled her mother to death. He seized Ronnie's throat from behind so she could not cry out, held her that way for an hour. Then, finding she had identified him, he strangled her, too, though "she was beautiful" and he "hated to destroy beauty."

Discovered by Father . . . Joseph Gedeon, Ronnie's father, estranged from his wife, discovered the murders when he and another daughter arrived for an Easter call. The wispy little upholsterer was "sweated" by police 30 hours as a suspect, then freed.

And Sister . . . Ethel Kudner, Ronnie's sister, was Irwin's intended victim. "I only wanted to kill Ethel," he said, "because I loved and hated her." The ice pick he intended to use to kill her he finally used to slay Byrnes, who was in the room next to Ronnie.

Brings Artist to Trial. Irwin's name turned up early in the inquiry, but he had vanished. Three months later, in June, 1937, he surrendered in Chicago. He said he had talked to Mrs. Gedeon for hours waiting for Ethel to come in, then had strangled her when she tried to eject him. Byrnes, who had slept through the two stranglings, he killed for fear the boarder might have learned something.

PARKING PLAN, SUNDAY BEER SIDETRACKED

Council Declines to Act on 2 Issues, Refers Both to Committees Again.

HEARS METER PROTEST

Junior Commerce Group Hits 5-Cent Parking Urged by C. of C., Merchants.

Two potentially controversial issues which were presented to city council again last night were referred to special committees that have had the proposals under advisement.

They were the question of the installation of parking meters in downtown Mansfield and a request for a Sunday ban on the sale of 3.2 beer.

Join In Backing Meters.

The parking meter request was submitted by the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants association while the beer ban was sought by the Richland County Permit Holders association.

The plan for 5-cent parking which met opposition from the Junior Association of Commerce was referred to a special committee that has had the problem before it for the past year, after Second Ward Councilman Russell D. Porch made a motion that would have authorized the mayor and service safety director to advertise for bids on the meters.

Porch explained that in the absence of Councilman-at-large James E. Crum, chairman of the special committee of which George Berg and he are the members, he had been asked to present a motion that the solicitor be authorized to draft the necessary legislation approving the call for bids.

Motion For Meters Fails.

The motion failed to get a second.

The Junior Association of Commerce presented a resolution adopted by the membership opposing the installation of the meters.

Only 11, David Statler of Memphis, Tenn., has a book in the best-seller class. It is "Roaring Guns." Critics regard the book as the most hilarious in a long time. Not that David intended it to be funny. In one chapter, called "Trouble," 800 men get shot, stabbed and tomahawked. In another chapter, Bill Johnson, "the badest robber in the west," gets killed twice in three pages.

Governor Says Lawlessness Won't Be Tolerated, Hits Lewis, Communism.

BULLETIN

MIDDLETOWN — (AP) — Gov. Martin L. Davey today ordered Ohio National Guard troops to come here tonight to preserve "law and order" in connection with a strike at the P. Lorillard company tobacco plant.

BULLETIN

MIDDLETOWN —(AP)— Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson telephoned Adj. Gen. Emil F. Marx today that City Manager Walter J. Braun informed him the strike-bound P. Lorillard company tobacco plant would reopen tomorrow under protection of Ohio national guard troops.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Gov. Martin L. Davey, declaring he would "not permit the lawless invasion of Middletown," said today "it may be necessary to send troops" there in connection with a strike at the P. Lorillard company tobacco plant.

A Committee for Industrial Organization union called a strike at the plant Oct. 3 and a week ago there was a skirmish at the plant between workers seeking to return to their jobs and union members and sympathizers. The union is seeking recognition as bargaining agent, a closed shop and a check-off system of organization dues collections.

Calls It 'Serious.'

Davey described the incident as a "serious riot" during which "the CIO pickets assaulted other employes, including some elderly women," and he said "a reign of terrorism has been inaugurated in a peaceful community."

Troops, the governor said in a statement to the press, have been placed "on notice" and are awaiting developments.

Adjt. Gen. Emil Marx, head of the Ohio National Guard, said he had notified a battalion, composed of about 500 men, that it might be called to duty. The battalion is composed of three rifle companies, and machine gun, headquarters, medical and signal companies. He declined to disclose the location of the units put on notice.

BUILDING JOINS IN 'GOOD NEWS'

New Construction in October Totals $101,000, Tops Same Month in '37.

Building activity in Mansfield provided another item of "good news" today, following announcements of increases in industrial employment, factory expansion and retail sales gains.

Building permit records for October show a total of $101,032 in new construction, topping the September figure by nearly $10,000, and exceeding the figure for October of last year by $4,000.

The October increase brought total building expenditure in the city for the 10 months of the year to $891,282, within striking distance of the $1,049,043 total for the same period last year, one of the biggest in the city's history from a building standpoint.

Residential building accounted for $68,100 of the permit total in October, representing 14 new residences. This was $18,000 under the September figure, representing 17 residences, but October is generally a poorer month for starting residence construction than September.

Business construction accounted for $25,000 of the October total. The Nickles bakery obtained a permit for a $22,000 building, and a permit for a $3,000 service station went to Fred Smith. Permits for alterations, garages and additions accounted for the balance.

Thus far in 1938, permits have been issued for 108 new homes in the city at an estimated cost of $621,000. In 1937, the total for the same 10 months was $790,050, for 124 homes.

Dr. Keiser said an attendant, who refilled the baking powder box from a store room in which the roach powder also was kept, had been suspended.

Two inmates who worked in the kitchen, Pauline Branicki, 24, of Cleveland, and Virginia Anderson, 52, of Guernsey county, died Monday after preparing the cookies for a halloween party at the institution.

The Political Parade---

Quits State Post In Protest At Job 'Deal'

Burk, Former New Londoner, Resigns Liquor Department Position Under Davey; Says He's Good Democrat, Backs Sawyer.

C. H. Burk, supervisor of state liquor stores and long prominent in Democratic ranks, today resigned his position in protest against the patronage "deal" between Governor Martin L. Davey and John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor.

Burk, formerly owner of a grocery store in New London and later state representative from Huron county, said in his resignation, "I am a good Democrat and a supporter of Charles Sawyer, the Democratic nominee for governor." Political comment concerning Burk's resignation today was to the effect that he was unwilling to be a subscriber to the party disloyalty or "deal" such as Sawyer has charged existed between the governor and Bricker.

There was also comment, dispatches from Columbus said, that Burk, state finance director under former Governor George White, may have been a victim of a Davey "purge," although Liquor Director James Miller said Burk resigned entirely of his own volition.

Burk, who now lives in Vermilion, has long been active in Democratic affairs. A member of the 90th assembly from Huron county—he lived in New London at that time, where he was in the banking business and also operated a grocery—he served with distinction on the house finance committee and was appointed by White to the legislative milk committee which

THE so-called "70-30 deal" with Gov. Martin L. Davey has forced John W. Bricker, Republican gubernatorial nominee, to silence his earlier promises of a clean-up in Ohio government, crowds of nearly 300 were told at Democratic political rallies in Butler and Lucas last night.

The assertion was made by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson who addressed both meetings in a campaign swing through central Ohio in behalf of the candidacy of Charles Sawyer, Bricker's opponent.

"We heard a lot about Bricker promising clean government in Ohio during the primary campaign but since his deal with Davey promises have mysteriously ceased," Ferguson said.

"He doesn't dare to talk about it anymore or else there wouldn't

JAPS BARE AIMS OF 'NEW ORDER'

Nippon, Manchoukuo, China Joined in Economic Bloc, Program After War.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO — Japan bluntly announced to the world tonight that she intends to create a political and economic bloc consisting of the Japanese empire, Manchoukuo and China in carrying out her "immutable policy" for Asiatic reconstruction after the war with China.

A formal government declaration left a loophole for possible peace with the present government of China "if it were to come forward to join in the establishment of the new order."

The statement expressed gratitude to those nations "which are in sympathy with us"—presumably Germany and Italy, Japan's allies in an anti-communist pact.

The declaration was issued in commemoration of tomorrow's national holiday, birthday anniversary of the Emperor Meiji, grandfather of Emperor Hirohito and considered the founder of the modern Japanese empire.

Born Nov. 3, 1852, Meiji reigned from 1867 until his death in 1912, his reign covering the period during which Japan emerged from isolation to become one of the great powers.

Previously the foreign office spokesman had declared that Asiatics "can hardly accept as fair treatment" the existence throughout Africa and Asia of colonies of western nations.

The New London Power company announced that rate cut be effective on all bills issued on and after Dec. 1.

The new rate is five cents a kilowatt hour for the first 40 hours; four cents for the next 460 hours, three cents for the next 500 hours, two and a half cents for the next 2,000 hours and two cents for the next 7,000 hours.

Leaking Fuel Tank Lands Two Endurance Flyers.

LANCASTER, Cal. —(INS)—A leaking fuel tank today had brought to an end the endurance flight of the light monoplane Little Bear after it had flown steadily for 218 hours and 23 minutes over Rosamond dry lake.

The pilots, Clyde Schlieper, of Long Beach, Cal., and Thomas H. Smith, of Clarksburg, W. Va., landed their craft on the desert without difficulty. They did not discuss the possibility of another attempt to break the endurance mark.

DICTATORS GET HULL'S WARNING

U. S. Won't Compromise on Trade Policies, Secretary Tells Nations.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — The totalitarian governments today had warning from the United States that there would be "no compromise" in its trade policies to accomodate their economic theories.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, speaking at the national foreign trade convention here last night, reiterated this government's faith in multi-lateral trade, as opposed to totalitarian bi-lateral trade systems; warned that a pursuit of autarchical policies would lead to collapse or war; and called for "redoubled vigor" in the United states' program of reciprocal trade treaties.

His speech was regarded as notice of "no compromise" to Germany whose economics minister, Walter Funk, recently suggested negotiation of a bi-lateral treaty with the United States.

The reciprocal system is grounded on the requirement that the United States must receive the "most favored nation" treatment, while the bi-lateral system provides for trade preferences in opposition to that theory.

It was Hull's first declaration since the Munich conference.

"It is my confident judgment that nothing that has occurred in recent years or in recent weeks has served to discredit in any way the principles on the basis of which we are seeking to bring about a restoration of sound economic conditions as a necessary foundation of durable peace," Hull said.

ROSIE IN COURT

Child Bride of 10 Ordered Taken to Orphanage.

PRESTONSBURG, Ky.— (AP) — Kentucky's 10-year-old child bride, Rosie Columbus Tackett, was ordered to an orphanage today by a six-man hill country jury.

At the urging of the court and a court-appointed attorney, the girl's mother, Mrs. Grace Columbus, protesting her reluctance, made an "X" on a legal paper giving the court the right to place Rosie, who was married last week to 34-year-old Fleming Tackett, a coal miner, in the Kentucky Children's home at Lyndon, Ky., near Louisville.

Rosie's husband, who is wanted on a warrant signed by County Judge Edward P. Hill on a charge of rape, is the object of a search by Flood county deputies.

At the hearing today Rosie told the court she wanted to go to the orphanage.

GETS DEMANDS

Britain Asked to Recognize Franco's Conquest.

LONDON — (INS) — A request for formal recognition of the insurgent regime in Spain was lodged with the British government by Generalissimo Francisco Franco today.

The request was made by the Duke of Alba, Franco's diplomatic representative in London.

Franco's representations asked that his regime be recognized by Britain immediately, after the pending Anglo-Italian friendship agreement becomes effective.

The first reaction of the British government, however, was to hedge on the insurgent demand.

Holds Up 2-Way Police Radio Plan Until Council Finds $700

An appropriation ordinance for $700 authorizing the purchase of two-way radio equipment for Mansfield police cruisers failed to get before city council for consideration last night.

Fred Miller, chairman of council's finance committee, and guardian of the city's purse "caught" the measure before it had a chance to be read.

It wasn't a case of not being in accord with Police Chief Meade K. Bates' plan to modernize police radio equipment, Miller said, but he pointed out that the committee will have to "dig around" a little to see what could be done about raising the money necessary to make the purchase.

He said, the legislation will be presented at the next council meeting—"if the $700 can be dug up."

Chief Bates had had the ordinance prepared in the hopes that the funds would be available immediately to equip the city's four police cruisers with ultra high transmitters to supplement the regular receiving equipment now in use.

The two-way equipment would provide for closer contact between the squad cars and headquarters and would place the Mansfield police department on an equal with those in any of the larger cities who are now using similar equipment, Bates said.

700 Volunteers Await Opening Of Red Cross Roll Call Nov. 11

With 700 volunteer workers organized, the 22nd annual Red Cross Roll Call in Richland county will open Armistice day, Roy R. Spetka, chapter chairman, announced today.

For the third consecutive year the Roll Call will be headed by William J. Locke, Mansfield insurance man.

The Roll Call will be launched with a dinner program Nov. 10 at the Westinghouse cafeteria and will close Thanksgiving day. The goal this year has been set at 8,000 memberships. Spetka said however, that every effort would be made to top last year's figure when the final count showed the record-breaking figure of more than 9,000. Richland county has won the honor flag for three consecutive years for having the highest membership per capita of any chapter in the state.

Assisting Locke will be Harry S. Black, war-time chairman of the Red Cross in Richland county, who will act in an advisory capacity, W. L. Miller, superintendent of public schools, vice chairman, Mrs. John Pierce, director of city ward workers; Harold Burns, director of county workers; Fred L. Tracy, industrial chairman; H. L. Frick, foreign corporations chairman; Rev. Hayes M. Braker, speakers' committee chairman; Paul W. Endriss, chairman of pulicity, and Mrs. V. E. Vining, dinner chairman. L. A. McGaw is chairman of the Shelby set-up with 100 workers.

Ward captains in Mansfield proper are Mrs. Glenn Marriott, Mrs. Leopold Adams, Mrs. Tom Ford, Miss Lucille Lorow, Mrs. Frank Maxwell, Mrs. C. V. McConnell and Mrs. Milo W. Hieber.

County districts are headed by Mrs. Vining, Harley Evans, Arthur White, Lewis M. Campbell and M. E. Warner.

Mercury Hits 74 In 'Heat Wave;' Rain Due Tomorrow.

Mansfielders basked today in one of the warmest November days on record, with the mercury at 74 degrees at noon.

The autumn "heat wave," which the weatherman said is Indian summer, will be a prelude to rain, since the forecast predicts cloudy and continued mild Thursday and showers Thursday night.

Farmers in the Mansfield area said rain is needed to make corn easier to handle during the shredding season.

The temperature yesterday reached 72 degrees during the afternoon. The low this morning was 41.

Dayton Teachers to Vote Today on 'Payless Paydays'

CITIZENS MAP PROPOSALS TO OPEN SCHOOLS

Mass Meeting of Instructors Called as Court Dissolves Injunction Order.

(By United Press)

DAYTON — A private mass meeting of Dayton's 1,300 public school teachers today was expected to determine whether the poverty-stricken schools here will be reopened quickly. The schools were closed three days ago by order of the board of education.

Two questions were to be submitted to the teachers by a citizens' committee at the meeting. These questions were:

1. Would you agree to return to work immediately, with your salary withheld until money is obtained from the $240,000 state school foundation certification to Dayton after Dec. 1?

2. Would you agree to work for five weeks after Dec. 1 without pay, if the two-mill school tax levy is passed by voters here next Tuesday? (The levy would provide an estimated $500,000 a year after Jan 1, 1939).

Dissolves Injunction.

There seemed little possibility that the schools would reopen before next Monday, but there was no assurance that the 34,000 pupils would be called back even then.

A temporary injunction against closing the schools, which was granted last week by Judge Null M. Hodapp, was dissolved late yesterday after a three-hour conference with the school board and the citizens' committee in common pleas court. Judge Hodapp also dropped contempt of court proceedings against five board members and two school officials who have ignored the injunction.

The board rejected a compromise proposal aimed at reopening the schools immediately and made no commitment on what course it would follow in the financial crisis. The schools have a $61,000 deficit and no money will be available for several weeks.

The board's action was expected to be dependent upon the teachers' attitude today.

Although the injunction granted by Judge Hodapp was dissolved the petition of Richard L. Withrow, dissenting board member, for a restrainer, still stands. It will be heard Thursday.

2 Protests Seen Against Proposed Radio Station Here

Two radio stations have indicated they will protest against issuance of license to Richland, Inc., for permission to erect a radio station in Mansfield, Associated Press dispatches from Washington to The News-Journal said today.

The two stations are WHK, Cleveland, and WGL, Fort Wayne. The latter station is operated by Westinghouse. It told the federal communications commission, which will hold a hearing on the application of Richland, Inc., Dec. 7, that the application should not be granted because it would cause interference with WGL.

WHK, operated by the Radio Air Service corporation, said it wished to be represented at the Dec. 7 hearing because its interests would be "adversely affected if any objectionable interference would result to its station."

WHK operates on 1390 kilocycles, and Richland, Inc., has sought permission to broadcast on 1370 kilocycles during the daytime with 250 watts power.

George Satterlee, Mansfield market operator, is president of Richland, Inc.

Flays 18 Per Cent Tax Increase In Ohio

Up and Down THE STREET

Next year's auto license made their first appearance in Mansfield yesterday but they weren't Ohio plates. The new tags were on a New York car. They are orange with black lettering, and, incidentally, again carry the New York world fair emblem.

That much-discussed group of pictures of Mansfielders, which was published some time ago in an advertising publication, appears in the current issue of Liberty magazine. The pictures, which cover two full pages, are part of a Liberty advertising campaign. Shown are business and industrial leaders and a street in a residential section. Two women, Mrs. F. D. Boals, president of the city P. T. A. council and Mrs. Helen Bacon, director of the Community Players, also are in the group.

Residents on what has been an unnamed thoroughfare running west from South Main street, opposite Chestnut street, won't have to worry about a mailing address any longer. City council last night acted on a request made by the residents some time ago and today the street which is a block long bore the name of West Chestnut street.

Sheriff E. P. Long frequently gets reports of stolen automobiles, but he is asked to investigate thefts of buggies only about once a year, and usually from the same farm southwest of Mansfield. Mrs. Emery Hooes, who lives on the farm, today reported a buggy missing from her barn for the third consecutive year. Each time, Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman investigated, and last year the buggy wasn't found. Since all the thefts have been at Halloween, Mrs. Hooes has decided that a prankster in her community has a phobia for buggies, which have just about disappeared from Ohio communities.

Perrysville Farmer Stricken as He Does Chores.

PERRYSVILLE—John Roseborough, 76, died of a heart attack at his farm, two miles east of here, this morning while doing the farm chores.

He had been in apparently good health, having visited in Akron Sunday and performing his usual duties. When he failed to return from the barn this morning his wife went to look for him and found his dead. Coroner Emery, Ashland county, said he had suffered a heart attack.

Mr. Roseborough was born May 3, 1862, in Green township where he had spent his entire life. He is survived by his wife, Malinda, two sons, Frank and Wilbur, of Akron, a daughter, Mrs. Lena Lozier, Newville, five grandchildren, and two brothers, Wilbur of Ashland, and Frank of Danville. PUSH TRIALS IN 'DAIRY TRUST'

Federal Investigators Speed Hearings for 75 Named in Indictments.

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO—Holding 75 indictments involving Chicago's dairy industry, the federal government today rushed preparations for one of the biggest "trust-busting" cases ever brought to trial.

Criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust act is said to be charged against a long list of individuals and corporations engaged in the production, distribution and marketing of milk and ice cream in the Chicago area.

Names of the defendants were ordered suppressed until Nov. 18, but they were reported to include numerous officials of milk companies as well as several prominent Chicago officials.

The indictments are said to allege a conspiracy to maintain an unjust spread between the price paid farmers for milk and the amount charged consumers in the city.

Assistant Attorney General Leo F. Tierney, who has conducted the four-month grand jury investigation, announced that his entire special staff of eleven lawyers and thirty-three agents and clerks will be kept on hand to help in the prosecution.

In another phase of the inquiry, the government was said to be proceeding with negotiations for a consent decree providing for reforms in the marketing of cheese, the price of which has been set for years at the exchange in Plymouth, Wis.

ASKS STATE FOR CROP DAMAGE

Farm Owner Says Highway Workers Caused Flooding of Field.

P. G. Ross, owner of Maxwalton farm, southeast of Mansfield today filed a claim for $1,013 with the state sundry claims board, alleging that his crops were damaged by state highway employes last June.

Ross said workers failed to clear away brush and weeds along state route 145, resulting in the clogging of a culvert and the flooding of his land following heavy rains.

The claim was referred to the state highway department for investigation.

Meanwhile, the highway department recommended paying $10.50 to J. A. McDermid, 505 East Townview Circle, Mansfield, in settlement of a claim for damages to his automobile. The car was struck by a state highway truck last July 25 on a downtown street.

FUND SHIFTS AVERT FINANCIAL DILEMMAS IN CITY DEPARTMENTS

Acting to keep the municipal purse in order as the end of the year approaches, city council last night went in for wholesale transfers and supplemental appropriations that will avert any departmental dilemmas.

Four ordinances were approved calling for additional appropriations of $5,500, and four resolutions were adopted for the transfer of $250.

Supplemental appropriations of $2,000 from the unappropriated gasoline tax fund was authorized to provide money for the street department, $1,000 which was to be spent for labor and the other $1,000 for materials.

The other three ordinances authorized a total appropriation of $3,500 from the unappropriated sanitary sewer fund to meet anticipated expenses at the city's sewage treatment plant for the balance of the year.

An appropriation of $1,800 was approved to meet power bills and $1,700 was earmarked for the payment of salaries for the next two months.

Councilman C. N. Shultz of the finance committee explained that the large appropriation of funds for the sewage plant was made necessary because "certain expenses" had not been able to be calculated at the time the annual appropriation measure was drawn last spring.

Resolutions were passed authorizing the transfer of $175 within the general fund, $50 within the gasoline tax fund was $25 within the sanitary sewer fund.

Council also voted to vacate two thoroughfares, one an unnamed alley running west from Bartley avenue and the other that portion of Carpenter road running north from Cline avenue through property now owned by the board of education, the site of the proposed Johnny Appleseed Junior high school.

Another measure was approved authorizing the payment of $65 to Lucille Rummell who was employed in the water department from Aug. 28 to Sept. 14, during the illness of Charles Anglin.

EXPEDITE PLANS

Postal Department Assures Ashbrook on Project Here.

Congressman William A. Ashbrook of the 17th district was assured today that plans for the new postoffice addition for Mansfield were being expedited as much as possible, and that the actual construction would get under way early next year.

In reply to Ashbrook's query as to when work might be expected to begin, Smith W. Purdum, fourth assistant postmaster general at Washington, said he had been advised that plans for the expansion of the present building are in course of preparation but that it was impossible at this time to indicate definitely when it will be possible to advertise for construction bids.

Ashbrook asked for the increased postal facilities for Mansfield more than a year ago and early this year $180,000 was allocated to finance the addition.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

CHAMBER SAYS ABILITY TO PAY LEVIES SHRINKS

Report Declares Spending by Schools Increases Close to Levels of 1929.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio state Chamber of Commerce reported today that federal, state and local taxes have increased by 18.9 per cent in the state during the past 10 years "while the ability of taxpayers to pay taxes has shown disastrous fluctuations."

The report prepared by Dr. Arch D. Schultz, research director of the chamber, covered public expenditures from 1929 to 1938 whenever figures for the current year were available. When not, the 1937 figures were used.

Dr. Schultz found that current school operating expenses, following a drop during the depression, have increased close to expenditure levels for 1929. He said that for 1937 the increase brought the spending up to 93.5 per cent of the outlay in 1929 immediately preceding the depression.

Draws School Protest.

A former study by the chamber showing that school costs during the past five years increased out of proportion to enrollment brought sharp criticism from school officials. They contended that there was a steep increase between 1933 and 1937 because in the former year school costs necessarily were cut deeply and also complained that capital improvement were included in the chamber's figures at that time. Dr. Schultz in the new report said this criticism by the school people had been met.

The report said that county governmental expenditures as of 1937 were 88.9 per cent of those in 1929 and for city governments for the same years expenditures were 85.5 per cent of 1929 costs.

By contrast the report cited a reduction in the assessed value of real estate by 28.1 per cent below 1929 figures; a 35.5 per cent cut in factory payrolls; and a drop in total state income of 19 per cent.

"In addition to this loss in the annual income of the people in 1937 as compared with 1929," it added, "the depression of 1938 also shows heavy additional losses in wages, salaries and other income which must be measured in billions.

"Despite present indications that conditions are improving business profits for the first half of 1938 are 9.5 per cent below the first half of 1937 according to the U. S. department of labor."

SUES OVER 'CAR'

Firm Charges Queer Home Has Cut Land's Value.

The N. P. Dodge corporation of Omaha, Neb., today had filed an action in common pleas court to force the removal of a "street car" dwelling and other small buildings from one of its properties in Brookline addition, Mansfield.

The suit charges that Ray Jewell, named as defendant, set up an old street car as a dwelling on the lot and erected other unsightly buildings which reduce the value of the property.

Building restrictions on the property, the petition states, prohibit any dwelling with less than four rooms and 400 square feet of floor space.

The suit asks removal of the buildings and an order enjoining the defendant from erecting others on the lot without permission of the owner.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Political Warfare Doesn't Hurt Us---In Wartime We'd Be United Nation

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—There seems to be a belief, as yet no bigger than a man's hand, that the external potential enemies of this country are so strong and arrogant that it would be folly to persist in criticism of the present national government.

There are some who share this feeling who profess to be and doubtless think they are opposed to dictatorship. But, obviously, if criticism and opposition were to fall silent for this reason, accepting for unity's sake regulation and economic measures which they believe to be ruinous, Hitler and Mussolini would spread their method to another country without the firing of a single shot.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke wisely last winter when he warned us all of the need for temperate speech, and there have been moments since then when he seemed to heed his own counsel.

He is not a moderate man by temperament, however, but a heavy puncher and not always able to resist the temptation to use his thumb in jabbing. This style of fighting for those measures which he believes to be necessary naturally tempts his opponents to fight him back in the same way, and the result too often has been a rough-and-tumble in a contest which were better conducted under straight commission rules.

* * *

The unruly neighbors, hearing and seeing such commotion, might exaggerate the seriousness of the division among the Americans, but if they were to act on this judgment they would find again that in case of external trouble the people of the United States can close up and defer their domestic squabbles as unfinished business. The truth is that they, too, Hitler and Mussolini, have their household dissents within their countries, the difference being that they do not permit opposition or criticism.

* * *

This country suspended many of its rights temporarily during the World war, including freedom of speech and of the press, but was prompt to reassert them when the need for complete unity was over. This may argue that democracies cannot fight with their full strength and that constitutional rights are a peacetime luxury. Certainly the British and French lost much blood in that war through straining to respect their principles, and when this country went in the people generally agreed the same mistakes would not be made here.

As to whether it is really imperative to suspend elements of the constitution, whether by outright consent or by subterfuge, in case of war, there may be argument. But there is no ground for arguing that political opposition should be waived in peacetime in order that the neighbors may be impressed and the people brought into a united front against enemies who up to now are only pulling snoots at us.

* * *

There still are those who believe the New Deal is by no means democracy's last effort in this country and that a defeat of the New Deal party would mean nothing but disruption here. There are still good men in the Democratic party outside the New Deal, and good Republicans as well, and the people give no evidence of an overwhelming determination to give up to confusion.

Mr. Roosevelt himself, Ickes and a few others have set the example of intemperance and inconsistency in the political disputes of the last few years. Such tactics and the zest for epithets have prompted the critics of the administration to make intemperate replies, and nobody will urge that all this has made for calm and reasonable consideration of the issues. But still the principals are Americans and would co-operate as such against any foreign enemy.

* * *

It is imperative that the opposition continue to oppose, lest for lack of opposition the party in power establish an unchallenged monopoly with no voice raised against any coercion or regimentation, and it is useless to attempt to develop the thought that as early as this, with no war on hand, it were unpatriotic to criticize the New Deal, lest the nation be fouly hampered in some problematical future conflict.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This is saddening. I makes us think that pretty soon life will be a crust, or at best a dud. The Marx brothers are quitting.

Not right now, understand. The crisis is not immediate.

"When we get through this present contract," said Groucho, "we'll be all through. Three more pictures—one a year. By that time the public will be overly fed up with us. It will be amazing if they are not fed up with us before then. I myself," this is Groucho the sad-eyed, "have been fed up with myself for some time.

"A man, even such as man as I, hardened to most things, cannot keep on seeing himself on the screen without becoming violently nauseated. There is a limit."

The next Marx picture, incidentally, will not be an adaptation of the most expensive stage play on Broadway. It will be a throwback to their own standard brand of comedy. It will be as different from "Room Service" as possible.

"Room Service," says Groucho, was an attempt to satisfy those who ask why the Marxes didn't tackle something different. As such, they're glad they did it. They'll be just as glad to get back in home territory for "A Day at the Circus."

* * *

Just as there are limits to a Groucho's endurance, there ought to be limits—but aren't—to this tough kid craze in pictures.

Once upon a time Jackie Searl had this bad-boy racket sewed up. Jane Withers, right on his heels, zoomed up as the Shirley Temple foil—a little girl who wasn't so much sweetness-and-light as fun. Jane, still mischevious, has gone rather sweet too. But in her place, there's a raft overloaded with brats.

All the current crop stem, directly, from "Dead End." That Goldwyn picture, using the stage play's original kids, did so well that Warner Bros., most crime-conscious of studios, seized the lads and put them in "Crime School." Result, a clean-up—and Universal hopped in with "Little Tough Guy."

* * *

"Little Tough Guy" fared so well as an unexpected hit that the studio assembled its own "Dead End" kids and, dubbing them "Little Tough Guys," has started a series of features. Republic chimed in with "Tenth Avenue Kid," all about a tenement boy, and Metro turned out by far the finest, most moving picture of the lot in "Boys Town"—no juvenile gangster stuff, but one bad boy against a barrelful of good boys and a courageous priest.

The "little tough guys" — as nearly like the "Dead End" kids as possible—are currently in "In Society." Somehow, they don't seem as tough as the Dead End Kids would have you believe they are, although Tough Guy David Garcey is a cousin of Dead End Kid Leo Garcey and with some of his associates were on the stage in "Dead End." One of the new Tough Guys is none other than Billy Benedict, the Oklahoma kid who used to be in so many Will Rogers films.

And a lead character in "In Society," the sissy rich boy, is played by none other than Jackie Searl, one-time prime brat of the screen. It goes to show, sort of.

Youthful Attitude Prevents Age

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There is no questioning the fact that the span of life has been increased by science, a better understanding of the art of living and greater advance in medicine and surgery.

The trouble is that the same prescription doesn't fit every candidate for prolonged youth. Keeping young is an individual problem. To some a busy life is a charmed recipe. Others find it in withdrawal from the turmoil of daily life.

It's queer what strange things will put the clock back at least ten years for some people. A visit to a college town, a lively suit of tweeds, a gay necktie and a more youthful haircut have been known to do strange things to Father. Associating with his sons' friends, who treated him on equal footing, gave pater familias a brace, and the more youthful clothes did the rest.

A permanent wave, a dash of rouge, a more modish frock often start a genuine rejuvenating process in women, giving them a different outlook on life, their second wind so to speak.

In turning back the hands of the clock, the first thing for everyone to consider is good health—not to neglect a checkup by a trustworthy physician at least once a year.

Far better than all the steaming and creaming and beauty-out-of-jars at $2.00 a throw is an inner contentment. We see this sometimes in the lovely and placid faces of deeply religious people or those who have given their lives to a cause. Love has a trick of making everyone beautiful in its first stages.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Nov. 3.

A day of splendid promise for sound achievement and fulfilled ambitions is the augury based on interesting planetary configurations. It is a time for confident approach to those in power and authority, superiors, employers and influential friends, or for marks of preferment, promotion and favors generally. Work, speculation, property and solid possessions of every kind are under direction for increase and stability. In all these expanding and solidifying issues, radical change may be advisable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of solid accomplishment and a gratifying fruition of ambitious objectives. Employers, superiors, those in position and prestige, as well as old friends, may be approached with confidence, since all signs indicate promotion, preferment and favors, with a stabilizing of fortunes and property values. Change or travel is also indicated.

A child born on this day may be well endowed with those sound and dependable qualities, talents and virtues that make for substantial success in life. It should win the support of those in power and standing.

NEW AMBASSADOR TO COURT OF PUBLIC WELFARE

Advising Friends How to Obtain Physical Relief From Certain Illness.

Says Guard Against Constipation Causes With World's Tonic.

Another good will ambassador to the court of public welfare in a measure of physical degree has been made by World's Tonic in the person of Mr. Ira G. Bethume of 230½ N. Lee St., Barberton, O., who tells how he is advising friends to watch certain of ailments caused by occasional constipation and throw off their uncomfortable results with the aid of World's Tonic.

"I'm feeling so good lately that I want all my friends to share my happy spirit. I'm telling them all that if they would just be a little careful and don't let constipation get a strangle hold on them the physical relief they would enjoy would pay many times in general welfare for their watchfulness. And, of course, I tell them how important a part World's Tonic has played in my experience.

"Constipation has pestered me until I felt like a hopeless invalid. I had all its common stomach weaknesses like gas, bloating, acid bitter taste. In addition to indigestion and gastritis pains, there were times when my back almost drove me crazy. I could put my hand on the middle of my back and feel a painful sore spot that made me jump when I touched it. Sometimes after eating I'd break out all in a sweat. I was a little doubtful when I began taking World's Tonic because I had spent so much money on different kinds of medicine without worth-while results. But, almost at once, I felt delightful relief from constipation and from then on it was just a matter of time before all the resulting aches, pains, and stomach disorders started leaving me. I'm in fine spirits now and you can bet that all my friends will hear about World's Tonic from me sooner or later."

No matter how much money you have spent nor how many kinds of medicines you have tried without results, don't give up hope. Consider these honest and grateful expressions of relief from thousands of users, many of the living right here in town as your very neighbors. Talk to some of them. There must be reasons for all the good will this famous medicine, with its roots and herbs and valuable alkalines, is creating daily.

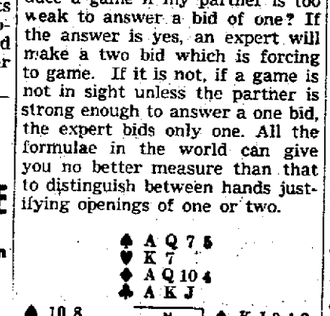
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

AN EXPERT'S MEASURE

WILL MY HAND probably produce a game if my partner is too weak to answer a bid of one? If the answer is yes, an expert will make a two bid which is forcing to game. If it is not, if a game is not in sight unless the partner is strong enough to answer a one bid, the expert bids only one. All the formulae in the world can give you no better measure than that to distinguish between hands justifying openings of one or two.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

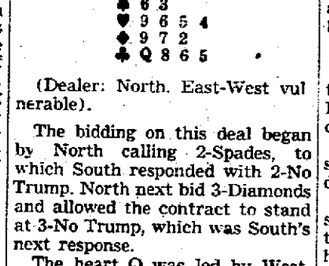
The bidding on this deal began by North calling 2-Spades, to which South responded with 2-No Trump. North next bid 3-Diamonds and allowed the contract to stand at 3-No Trump, which was South's next response.

The heart Q was led by West, covered by dummy's K and won with East's A. The heart 2 was returned and won by West, who cashed three more heart tricks. West returned the spade 10, on which the Q was played and East took with his K. He came back with a spade and the 8 forced the A. Declarer then cashed the clubs A and K and covered the J with the Q to enter his hand to try the diamond finesse. This play also lost to East, who took the spade J. The result was that declarer lost five hearts, two spades and one diamond.

South criticized North severely for his optimism in making a two bid. North retorted that he had sufficient high cards to do so but he failed to realize that what he was lacking was playing tricks.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable).

What is the proper bidding on this deal?

Fashion Orphans – Colored Winter Coats – Make Defiant Come-Back; Rural Autumn Shown By One Manufacturer

By ADELAIDE KERR

(AP Fashion Editor)

Colored winter coats—fashion orphans for the last few years—will come back to Fifth avenue and Main street this fall if the coat and suit division of the Fashion Originators' Guild of America has its way.

The 12 designer-manufacturers of the division defied midseason emphasis on black by staging an entire coat and suit fashion show in one color—"rural autumn"—a rich red rust. Although all of the models shown were in one shade, the division pointed out that this particular hue was not to be regarded as one of outstanding significance. The point of the display was not the importance of this particular color—but the accent on color—in coats.

The show was part of a concerted effort on the part of American designer-manufacturers to put "pep" in fall fashions and give lagging business a shove. Business in coats reached its peak in the days when women wore colored coats, the division spokesman said. In the past few years smart women by the thousands have chosen black or somber coats which can be worn over dresses of many different shades.

The coats shown in the display included both fitted and straight box models, ranging all the way from luxurious afternoon wraps to sport clothes. They were designed with both large and small collars and furred in a great variety of pelts including kolinsky, beaver, blue fox, gray and black Persian lamb. They reflected both sparing and lavish use of furs. A number of them were worn over frocks of the same hue.

Their diversity emphasized the fact that designers are concentrating on color instead of design in this display which preceded regular fashion showings. Stylists watched the show with interest, but none hazarded even a guess as to how strong its influence might be in stimulating a vogue for color which might jar the fashion supremacy of black.

Two colors which are receiving much consideration in the fashion world this fall are wine and grape. Purple plum is regarded as a likely "high style" hue. Deep laurel green, slate blue and brown are also discussed as colors of some importance.

This fall coat recently made its debut at a New York fashion show featuring wool coats in "rural autumn" color. Beaver makes its collar and sleeves. (Design by Carmel Bros.)

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"What is all this?" he demanded in low but irascible tones. "We'll be late for the appointment."

"No, you won't," I returned equably. "A taxi will get you there in a quarter of an hour normally, and you have twice that in which to make it."

"And now that you've demonstrated your knowledge of this city's crazy traffic situation, will you please condescend to tell me what you're driving at?"

"Bill is terribly worried over all this," I said. "Hank, of course, doesn't know what it's all about. Bill's chief fear is that the specialist may forbid Hank to go back to school, or will send him somewhere else. I wondered if you couldn't put in a word—"

"My—dear—spouse!" He spaced his words maddeningly. "Will you kindly tell me what influence I could bring to bear upon an internationally-known specialist? If he condescends to ask my opinion, of course I'll bring up all my heavy artillery, and try to get Hank sent back to school. But it's entirely on the knees of the well-known gods, or rather, in the hands of Dr. T—"

"Will you be able to come back here with the boys?" I asked next, and was not surprised to see my husband frown portentously.

Dicky Not Sure.

"I don't think so," he said, "although if I can make it, I will. How long can they stay in the city?"

"Not later than tomorrow," I said. "Are you going to let them drive the car back?"

"No," he said finally. "It will be safer if they go out on the train tomorrow. You telephone the house to have Harry meet them at the station. And—I may need the car at any time. Any more questions?"

"Not one," I said. "And there's the elevator. You can just make it!"

"So long!" I heard him say, as the elevator stopped.

"Come back if you can," I forced myself to say, but the descending elevator drowned his reply, if, indeed, he made one.

With spirits rapidly descending to the nadir, I went back into the living room to find Mary standing before an open window, going through the deep breathing and gymnastic exercises which are a part of her training routine.

"I overslept, thanks to that pill of Miss Whitlock's," she said with a saucy moue at the nurse, "and then the boys and breakfast came along, so I didn't have a chance to get these in before. Is the open window too much for you?"

"No, indeed, I like it," I assured her truthfully. "Go on with your motions. They are very fetching."

Telephone Interrupts.

"Now for my three showers, hot, tepid and icy," she said, heading for the bathroom, "and after that I'll be ready for a drill. We can get an hour in while the boy's are away, don't you think?"

"I'm sure we can," I told her. But I had held the book and listened to her lines for less than half the time she had named when the telephone shrilled. Miss Whitlock answered it, and then spoke to me in a carefully-composed voice, which nevertheless held curbed anger.

"For you, Mrs. Graham," she said, "a woman who refuses to give her name."

Straight From Paris.

* * *

By VERA WINSTON

THE PLAIN black dress, perfectly cut and detailed, and depending on fabric and line rather than on trimming, is dear to every feminine heart. Here is such a dress, coming straight from Paris. It is of thin wool in a crepey texture. From a curved seam on the bodice, right below the bust, are little gathers to the neck. A sash twisted and draped from the middle goes round the back and ties again at side front.

Different Touch Adds To These

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HERE IS a collection of swell recipes that are easy to do and not hard to take.

Scrambled eggs are nice, but if you want to win plaudits serve them a different way, this way. Ingredients include seven slices stuffed olives, two tablespoons each chopped ham and chopped green pepper, two teaspoons of a piquant table sauce (but one not so sharp or thin as Worcestershire sauce), one-quarter teaspoon salt, six eggs, six tablespoons cream and three tablespoons butter. Melt the butter in s skillet and brown very slightly the sliced olives, onion and green pepper. Be sure the latter is chopped very fine. Add the eggs and cream, then the sauce and seasoning. Stir all together and cook well over low heat, stirring and lifting frequently until the mixture coagulates. It is specially nice for a "company" breakfast or for Sunday "brunch," and nicer still when served with vegetable sandwiches.

Recipe for Sandwiches.

To make these use one-half cup each shredded carrot, shredded cabbage and shredded celery, also three tablespoons chopped parsley or watercress. Moisten with mayonnaise, season with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Spread on buttered slices of white bread; cover with buttered slices of wholewheat bread. Cut diagonally.

Hamburger Shamrock is still another way of serving the popular hamburger. For one pound of meat you will require one egg, one-quarter cup soft bread crumbs, three-quarters teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon each of poultry seasoning and pepper, and three green peppers. Pat hamburger mixture into rings. Broil seven minutes on one side and six minutes on the other. Delicious!

Potato 'Treat.'

If your family likes potatoes, then here is a real treat. It calls for six white potatoes, two eggs, three-quarters teaspoon salt, four tablespoons butter and one cup cracker crumbs. Pare the potatoes and cut into one-half inch thick slices. Dry well. Beat eggs. Roll potatoes in seasoned cracker crumbs, then in egg, then in crumbs again. Place in a well-buttered casserole and cover. Place in second set of glides in a cold oven and cook for one hour at a 375 F. temperature.

Yet another hamburger recipe is one the list, this time in the form of grand after-theater snack for company. To one pound of hamburger add one egg, salt and pepper to taste. About one tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce and one-half teaspoon of ground sage are good additions. Chop a small onion very fine and brown it in butter, then add to the hamburger mixture. If the mixture is too wet, add the few crumbled crackers and form into patties (this makes six or seven). Next slice a large Spanish onion and two tomatoes. Split open and butter round buns. Place all on broiler rack. Toast buns and broil patties and vegetables.

Run a knife around the core of an apple before putting it into the oven to bake. This will prevent the skin's bursting while baking.

Notes From a Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

I heard Madame talking about our Florida shops today. She may not open this year, but she won't make up her mind definitely until the beginning of December. Up till now, nothing has been done about the California shop.

Dodo comes to town in a few days, and when I happened to mention this to Madame she asked me if I wouldn't arrange a luncheon date for the three of us. Now I know Madame well enough to realize she doesn't give up her time during the day for a luncheon unless it is social or business. And as I am to be along and as Dodo is a designer, it can scarcely be a social date. I do know Madame admires Dodo and her work immensely, and always used to make a point of seeing the pictures for which Dodo did the clothes.

Marriage on Rocks.

Poor Dodo! Her marriage seems to have gone on the rocks. In her letter announcing her arrival here, she says that it is high time for her to come to some decision about her life and work, so I take it that she has no thought of returning to her husband. She says that the baby is marvelous but that she doesn't want to risk bringing her to the east for the winter, so the baby is going to stay with Dodo's cousin at Santa Monica.

I spoke to Consuelo about it and she was so sweet. She suggested that I invite Dodo to come and stay with us. There is a huge guest room and bath, and since we seldom have guests, it is unoccupied. She said that if we did have guests, Dodo could double up with me or sleep in her dressing room. I have an idea that Dodo will be very lonely and will be glad to accept Consuelo's invitation. After all, she has never lived in New York, having only visited in the course of her motion picture work. While she knows loads of people casually, she hasn't a real friend, except for me.

Fire or flood wouldn't prevent a girl from making a safari to catch a seal-trimmed costume like this one. It is of cedar brown with black seal forming top of sleeves and yoke. There are concealed fastenings at center front closing. It is fitted through the waist, the seams terminating in two vertical lines on either side of the closing. The football-like muff has a zipper closing which conceals a pocket-book.

Feet, Oh, Feet, Give Them Care

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women the world over spend vast sums of money to make themselves comfortable, appealing to the eye and beautifully dressed. The first wrinkle sends them galloping to cosmetic counters from whence they emerge with more massage creams and lotions than they can carry in two arms. Silver threads in their glorious thatches lead them to invest in scalp treatments. A tiny mole appears and away they go to the dermatologist to get a divorce from it.

Painful feet they will endure for years. They seem to take it for granted that hurty pedals are the common lot and there's not much to be done about them.

Surveys show that seventy women among one hundred have deformed feet. That's not a credit to the sisterhood. It is the result of vanity. They want their feet to look small.

Some women don't know how to walk, others can't because their shoes won't let them. The weight of the body should not be carried by the heels or the toes, but balanced between them. Wear high heels and the toes bear the burden, taking on corns, ingrowing nails and calloused spots.

Walking is a good exercise to keep feet in form, if shoes are the correct last.

To strengthen tendons stand erect, hands on hips. Toes in. Up on the toes slowly, down on the heels. Five times, rest and repeat.

Sit on a low stool, feet several inches apart, toes pointing straight ahead. Curl the toes under as if you were picking up marbles. Keep the heels off the floor.

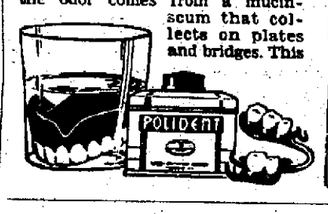
Does Your Breath Broadcast "I Wear False Teeth"?
Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

Most people who wear plates or bridges suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing cannot prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.



One thing can stop "denture breath"—and that's Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing.

Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Put plate or bridge in ½ glass of water. Add a little Polident powder. Leave in 10 to 15 minutes—rinse and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

Fendrick Teams Have Won 61

Butler Celebrates Thursday

* * *

Newark Schedules Willard

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

RAM-DOM SHOTS: Coach Al Fendrick's Madison high Rams have lost only one Mid-State league game since the circuit was organized in 1933. . . . Madison's lone defeat was administered in 1935 by the great Mt. Gilead team led by the redoubtable Bob Payne. . . . The toughest game the Rams have experienced since in a legue tilt was in 1936 when they were forced to the limit to trim Loudonville, 6-0. . . . Incidentally, the Red Birds provide the opposition for the Rams under the Madison lights Friday night when they open their defense of the title won last fall. . . . Loudonville should provide the Rams with one of their toughest league tests. . . . The Birds' only defeats came in games with Ashland and Bellville, which packs one of the 18 perfect records in the state. . . . This year is Fendrick's 10th at Madison. . . . His teams have won two county league and four Mid-State gonfalons. . . . Only three times have his team lost two or more games (and in two of these years it was Class A teams which did it) . . . Since taking over the coaching labors from C. N. Davis in the fall of 1929, Fendrick has guided the Rams to 61 victories. . . . Five of the 14 defeats suffered by Fendrick came in games with Class A foes. . . . Not a bad record for a growing school which was once a push-over for Bellville, Butler and Lucas on the gridiron.

BOLES

BUTLER TO CELEBRATE: Thursday it will be the "red-letter" football day for Butler high school. . . . It will be Homecoming day, Butler's first. . . . To entertain the grads, Coach Bob Burgett's Bulldogs will meet Fredericktown in a grid tussle in which the outcome looks favorable for Butler. . . . The celebration starts off with a bon fire Wednesday night. . . . Pretty Roma McCauley will preside as homecoming queen.

* * * * *

CONGRATULATIONS, BOB: Bob Evans, who served as business manager of Mansfield's pennant-winning Ohio State league team in 1937, is stepping rapidly up the radio ladder. After leaving Mansfield, Bob, son of the Boston Red Sox's farm manager, Billy, joined WBZ, Boston, as sports announcer, and recently was appointed NBC director of special-events broadcasts in the New England states. Evans, who made his radio debut at Cleveland's WGAR before coming to Mansfield, is believed headed for a Radio City post in New York.

Boles to Quit Coaching After Next Year.

PLAYS AT NEWARK: Forced to schedule another football game because of the cancellation of Dayton Steele, Newark high has booked Willard for a home game next Saturday. . . . Both Newark and Willard are finding it difficult to win ball games this fall. . . . The Crimson Flashes only ball game was scored over Pt. Clinton, 7 to 0.

* * * * *

BOLES TO QUIT: Despite the fact that it was publicly revealed Coach L. C. Boles' announcement that he will retire from coaching at Wooster after next year is not generally known. Boles plans to give all of his attention to administrative work after 1939. Ohio football will miss Boles.

Bushnell Cinches Tie For Football Crown

Newman Can Gain Share of Title This Week-End Only If Leader Loses Final Game.

BUSHNELL gridsters today were certain of at least a tie for the championship of the City Grade School touch football league.

Bushnell made its title hopes definite yesterday when it defeated Brinkerhoff, 20 to 6, at North park. Brooks, Swan and Hergatt scored the Bushnell touchdowns, with the former adding one extra point. It was Bushnell's seventh straight victory.

Newman remained two points behind Bushnell by outpointing Western, 13 to 0, at Simpson field. Schwaner added all of the points with touchdowns in the first and fourth periods.

Bowman retained third place by whipping West Fifth, 7 to 0, at Columbia field. Kamjonorick scored both the touchdown and point on passes. Carpenter defeated Hedges, 12 to 6, in the other game at Hedges field. Lowry and Johnson scored for the winners, and Bishop added the Hedges touchdown.

It's Back to Work for King Seabiscuit

By ORLO ROBERTSON

BALTIMORE, Md.—(AP)—Seabiscuit, the hard-hitting little equine warrior from the west, stands unchallenged today as the king of the American turf.

In as dramatic a battle as ever decided over Pimlico's ancient turf, the five-year-old star of Charles S. Howard's stable yesterday settled his argument with Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral in a manner that left no doubt as to which is the better horse.

Not only did the Biscuit whip the mighty Admiral by three lengths but he created a new track record for a mile and three-sixteenth and left 40,000 fans singing the praises of the one-time selling plater, which Howard purchased two years ago from the fashionable Wheatley stable for $8,000. Under George Woolf's fine hand-ride the son of Hard Tack reeled off the distance in 1:56 3-5, one fifth of a second faster than Pompoon's track mark and four-fifths of a second under the time the Biscuit himself ran the distance in establishing a new track standard last fall.

The race was run just the opposite from what most of the experts and laymen expected. They figured War Admiral would go out in front and stay there all the way and as the result made the Riddle ace the 1 to 4 favorite while holding Seabiscuit at slightly better than 2 to 1.

But it was the Biscuit and not the Admiral that was away in front. It was Seabiscuit and not his four-year-old rival that set practically all the pace and turned back every bid for victory by his rival. After trailing by as much as two lengths for nearly five-eights of a mile, War Admiral moved in and looked the Biscuit in the eye. He stuck his nose in front, and appeared headed for victory.

However, Seabiscuit refused to give ground. He hung on like a leech, took command again by the narrow margin of a nose to the mile post and then bounded away while Charley Kurtsinger punished the Admiral with his whip in an effort to catch the fast-stepping California bay. Not once did Woolf raise his bat as his mount drew away steadily in the final yards.

Carrying with yesterday's triumph was a purse of $15,000 which sent the Biscuit soaring into a second place among the leading money winners of the world with earnings of $340,480. Ahead of him stands Sun Beau's world record of $376,744.

There will be no rest for either horse. Seabiscuit will remain at Pimlico with Saturday's Riggs handicap as his immediate objective. War Admiral is headed for Narragansett Park where he will be pointed for the Nov. 12 running of the $15,000 Rhode Island handicap.

Middle Crown Lifted

Solly Krieger Deals Out Savage Beating to Home Town Favorite.

SEATTLE—(AP)—Solly Krieger, a scowling bomber from Brooklyn, was the new middleweight champion of the world today after beating Al Hostak so savagely he sent the Seattle Slav to a hospital, temporarily blinded, paralyzed and without the use of one arm.

Krieger, the third man to win the middle title in a Seattle ring in the last 28 months, fought a cagey, crouching battle. He cut Hostak to pieces with left and right crosses before 9,000 surprised spectators. Al had been a heavy local favorite.

Hostak was a dejected and broken battler when he left the ring for the hospital. He was game to the end—too game for his own good—staying the full 15 rounds even when he had only his right hand left for both offense and defense. When it was over his right eye was swollen shut, his left almost closed, his face bloody and gashed, his left side welted and paralyzed, and his hands badly injured.

Dr. H. T. Buckner reported, after a superficial examination, that bones in both hands were broken.

Dr. Buckner said Hostak would be unable to go in training again for at least three months. The youngster had his bags packed to start a fighting tour of the country.

Foxx Receives Player Award

Named Most Valuable in League Third Time.

NEW YORK—(UP)—For the third time in his career James Emory Foxx, cherubic first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, has been named the most valuable player in the American League, it was announced today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

As a climax to one of the greatest comebacks of the 1938 season Foxx was picked by 19 out of 24 writers for the most valuable player award, an honor he won in 1932 and 1933 when he was with the Philadelphia Athletics. Out of a possible 336 points, Foxx receiveed 304.

Because of illness in 1937 Foxx had one of the poorest seasons of his career and his batting average shrunk 53 points to .285, the lowest figure he ever hit. Foxx this year regained his former glory by leading the American League in batting with an average of .349, in total bases with 398; and in runs batted in with 174. He finished second in home runs with 50, second one in runs scored with 139 and third in hits with 197.

Bill Dickey, New York Yankee's catcher and deadly hitter, placed second with 196 points.

Armstrong Injured, Fight Called Off.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Henry Armstrong-Ceferino Garcia welterweight scrap is off for a month and maybe longer, all depending upon how Armstrong recovers from a hurt he got while shadow-boxing yesterday.

The little champion fell twice in what was to have been his final training session for the first defense of his 147-pound title tonight, and he is trussed up worse than a Thanksgiving turkey. He can walk, but that's about all.

Promoter Mike Jacobs is gloomy, for it had looked like a sell-out of $120,000.

Dartmouth Gridder Objects to Commercialism, Profanity In Lockers, Quits Team for Colony

HANOVER, N. H.—(UP)—Classmates of Harrington K Gates, backfield player on Dartmouth university's undefeated football team, said today the reason he had withdrawn from school and joined a religious colony probably was that he had objected to the "commercialism of college football" and to the profanity he heard in the dressing rooms.

Gates, 24, disappeared from his rooms here Sunday shortly after he returned with the team from New Haven, Conn., where it defeated Yale Saturday. He was found yesterday at the colony of the "Legion of God," at Amherst.

He had been traced through a letter of resignation received by Dean Lloyd K. Neidlinger on Monday. The dean, accompanied by two of Gates' closest friends, went to the colony to plead with him to return and complete his senior year at the university. Gates refused, saying he feared he could not resist the temptation to play football again, the dean reported.

Gates joined the cult in his sophomore year, two years ago, but he had not let religious scruples against football interfere with his playing until this year. He was a star of the team during his sophomore and junior years. This year he decided to give up the game. He did not report for practice until last Wednesday, during the height of training for the Yale game.

Coach Earl Blaik, fearing that other players might resent Gates' joining the team at that late date in the season, polled them on the subject. All the players were enthusiastic over accepting Gates. He played half the game against Yale, which Dartmouth won, 24-6.

Then he disappeared. Neidlinger attributed Gates' actions to his "complete allegiance" to the cult, called "The Holy Ghost and Us Society." Other students, however, told of Gates' frequent protests against profanity to which he was subjected on the playing field and in the locker rooms, and said the commercialization of the game also had displeased him.

STOCK TRADERS AWAIT BREAK IN STALEMATE

List Straggles Along Same Narrow Path Followed in Recent Sessions.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks straggled along the same narrow market path today they have followed in recent sessions.

Speculative participation in the dealings were greatly reduced as traders waited for something to break the stalemate.

In bonds and commodities mark-time also was portrayed in narrow price changes.

Steel firmed a bit after the start, including U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet, all up fractions at one time. Also a little higher near the second hour were North American, Consolidated Edison, Great Northern preferred, Westinghouse Electric, International Harvester and United Aircraft.

Small losses were recorded in Kennecott, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Union Carbide and Montgomery Ward.

Building figures were calculated to encourage hope in Wall street for continuation of business recovery.

HONOR INSURANCE HEADS

The Mansfield agency of the Ohio State Life Insurance company was host at a dinner last night in Norwalk in honor of Claris Adams, president of the company and Dr. C. E. Schilling of Columbus, vice president and medical director. Dr. Schilling was given a testimonial in recognition of his 33 years with the company, which he helped to organize.

Ralph P. Smith, manager of the agency, presided at the dinner.

Backs Sawyer

Clarence H. Burk, former New Londoner, who today resigned as supervisor of state liquor stores, a post to which he was appointed by Gov. Martin L. Davey, with the announcement "I am a good Democrat and a supporter of Charles Sawyer for governor." Burk is a former member of the state assembly and was finance director under former Gov. George White. Some Columbus sources reported that he might have been a victim of a Davey "purge" because of his support of Sawyer. Davey has been accused of assisting the campaign of John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for governor.

Rotarians Given Close-up of Work at Friendly House

Mansfield Rotarians, at their Tuesday meeting, were given a close-up view of the variety of activities conducted at Friendly House community center, in a talk given by Mrs. Russell Gimbel, who is associated with her husband in supervision of this work.

Also presented on the program was five-year-old Lincoln (Teddy) Adkinson, jr., a versatile colored youngster who attends Friendly House kindergarten and who sang, played a horn and danced, to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Gimbel.

Supported by the community fund and individual contributions, Friendly House has performed an important service in its section of the city for a number of years.

Mrs. Gimbel told of its early history, from the beginning inspired by the late Miss Susan Sturges, and of its present schedule of activities, with four regular and from thirty to forty volunteer workers, an enrollment of 1125 representing 26 nationalities, and with 79 varied activities, extending from kindergarten work to adult classes.

Louis A. Ott was program chairman, with R. D. Iden presiding.

QUITS POST IN 'DEAL' PROTEST

Burk, Former New Londoner, Leaves Liquor Department to Support Sawyer.

inquired into the dairy products marketing situation and developed health laws now in effect.

When Gov. White named Howard L. Bevis to the supreme court in 1933, Burk succeeded Bevis as state finance director which post he held until the Davey administration came into power.

Davey named Burk supervisor of state liquor stores. The governor wanted to make him liquor director, and Burk took that position but later vacated it because he could not constitutionally hold it, having been a member of the assembly that created the post.

Burk only recently moved from New London to Vermilion.

Meanwhile Bricker sought to make campaign material by charging Sawyer and his forces with soliciting campaign funds from liquor permit holders and liquor store managers. Democratic leaders today made no effort to deny the charge.

Arthur L. Limbach, Democratic executive committee chairman, said he had sent out the solicitations to liquor permit-holders, but added that Sawyer had quickly ordered the practice stopped.

Limbach said no checks had been received, and "if any do come in we'll send them back."

At the same time he named five more liquor department inspectors who he said had furnished affidavits purporting to show that Governor Davey and John Bricker, the GOP candidate for governor, had made a 70-30 patronage deal. Those named were:

Ivan Gongwer, William Sutter and Louis Schaeffer, or Sandusky, Charles Ritz, of Lima, and Karl R Schnorr, of Toledo.

Predicts Big Cuyahoga Margin.

While Sawyer said in Toledo last night that he would carry Cuyahoga county by at least 88,000 votes, Bricker charged that 90,000 letters have been sent to farmers promising them rebates on gasoline taxes, that the letters were addressed by state employes on salaried time paid by tax payers.

The political battle between Senator Robert J. Bulkley, seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket, and Robert A. Taft, Republican candidate, today became a 100 per cent issue on the New Deal policies, when Bulkley publicly defended the spending policy of the New Deal, declaring it was a boon to the nation, and hailed the PWA for its great national accomplishments, and the spiritual and moral rejuvenation of millions of workers."

Hits Flood Control Policy.

Taft again criticized his opponent for the New Deal's flood control policy which spent billions for control in little populated districts and paid little heed to the flood problems of millions in the Ohio river valley.

Taft also criticized Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's farm program, describing the proposed two-price plan as "socialism with a vengance" and asserted that Ohio farmers are in revolt against the New Deal policies.

Taft pointed to the fact that in Columbus Louis J. Tabor, grange and farm bureau leader, had announced support of Taft and Bricker.

Sawyer also spoke in Toledo yesterday, and while terming the gubernatorial primary the bitterest in Ohio's political history, renewed charges that Bricker and Davey had made a 70-30 patronage split of state employes in the event Bricker is elected.

State election officials were making ready to receive 2,750,000 votes next Tuesday, and thereby establish a record for non-presidential year. The secretary of state's office today recalled that the previous "off-year" election high vote was in 1934 when 2,250,000 votes were cast. The total state vote in the last presidential year—1936—brought out a vote of 3,044,000.

CHARGES 'DEAL' SILENCES G. O. P.

Ferguson at Butler and Lucas Says Bricker's 'Clean-up' Promises Have Ceased.

be any deal."

Sawyer forces have charged that Davey, defeated by Sawyer at the Democratic primary, has aligned himself with Bricker on the promise that Davey will be given 30 per cent of state patronage in the event of Bricker's election.

Ferguson attacked Bricker's reign as attorney general during two years of the Davey administration. "Where was Mr. Bricker when good government went bad in Ohio?" he asked.

The state auditor criticized Davey's stand in the campaign declaring the "70-30 deal" was brought on by Davey's determination to "protect that clique that's been with him."

Ferguson charged that because of the current dispute between Davey and the federal social security board, "Ohio faces the threat of losing $1,300,00 in federal pension funds in order to save the vanity of one man."

The federal government has withheld the state's share of funds for old age pensions because of Ohio's failure to comply with federal regulations on pensions.

County candidates speaking briefly at the meetings were C. L. Mitchell seeking re-election as county commissioner, Ralph C. Lutz seeking re-election as state representative and Norman L. Wolfe, who is unopposed for election as county auditor.

Support of the party's candidates was urged by Mayor Claude M. Hunter, John Correll and Atty. John C. O'Donnell, executive committee chairman.

Earlier, Correll, president of the Richland County Young Democratic club, addressed a meeting of the Dolly Madison club at Democratic headquarters on West Fourth street.

More than 100 who attended a covered-dish dinner and bridge party heard Correll predict that "the day will come when a woman will serve as chairman of the county executive committee."

Correll asserted that "the presence of women in politics has gone a long ways towards promoting efficiency in government."

Lutz and Mitchell also spoke briefly.

Mrs. Louise Reese, who presided at the meeting, spoke in behalf of the proposed half-mill tuberculosis levy.

Tonight Mayor Hunter will speak at a rally at 7.30 in Plymouth while Congressman William A. Ashbrook will headline the program at a Shelby rally at the Shelby high school tomorrow night.

PROGRESSIVES IN HOT CONTEST

Third Party, Under Guidance of LaFollette, Faces Test in Wisconsin Vote.

(By Associated Press)

MADISON—Big league politicians are keeping a wary eye on the Wisconsin campaign to gauge the appeal of Gov. Phil LaFollette's National Progressive party to voters throughout the country.

The situation is unusually scrambled even for Wisconsin. A victory is possible for any candidate.

Governor LaFollette seeks re-election and is opposed by Julius P. Heil, Republican, and Harry Bolens, Democrat. Bolens was chosen to make the Democratic race after Robert K. Henry withdrew.

Progressives Challenge Duffy.

The Progressives are making a bid for a second senatorship with Herman Ekern seeking to unseat Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat. Alexander Wiley is the Republican candidate. John B. Chapple, deefated for Republican nomination, is running as an independent.

The launching of the Progressive party last spring signalized a "break" between Governor LaFollette and President Roosevelt, the former characterizing New Deal economic policies as "tinkering and patching."

Seator Bob Helps.

The governor's brother, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, threw his strength behind the Progressives

Duffy invited the president to speak for him in the campaign. Democratic leaders were not entirely in accord, saying it might bring an open break with Progressives. They expressed the view the time is not ripe for that.

Friends predict that if Governor LaFollette loses his fight for re-election he will devote all of his time to building up the Progressive party for the 1940 campaign.

TWO CONTESTS ON MORROW'S COUNTY TICKET

Races on for Commissioner, Representative; Congress Contest Interests.

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of stories summarizing the political campaigns in counties in the immediate Richland county area.)

MT. GILEAD—While Morrow county voters will look over contested state and district offices for the Nov. 8 election, little time will be required for consideration of county candidates as only two local offices are contested.

Burson Ulrey, Democrat, and George Thomas, Republican, are the only candidates for the office of commissioner. The winner will succeed W. J. Fulton, Democrat, chairman of the board, whose term expires in January.

Harold Taylor, Republican, now serving his first term is unopposed for a second term as county auditor, and Common Pleas Judge P. H. Wieland, Republican is unopposed for a second term.

In Assembly Race.

The only contest is for representative with three candidates in the field. J. G. Mill, Republican incumbent, is opposed by C. H. Patzer of Washington township and E. R. McMillan of Bennington township.

Mills who defeated Patzer two years ago is seeking a third term and E. R. McMillan appears on the ticket as an independent.

The race between Brooks Fletcher, Democrat, and Dr. Frederick Smith of Marion for Eighth district congressman is attracting considerable interest because of the strenuous campaign being made. Fletcher is now serving his fourth term and Smith, present Marion mayor, is seeking the office for the second time. He was defeated for the Republican nomination by Grant Mouser, Marion attorney, four years ago.

Abe Laird of New Philadelphia, and W. F. Garver of Millersburg, both serving their first term in the Ohio senate from this district are opposed by W. G. Nickles and Charles W. Matson. Little interest in the offices has been evidenced and none of the candidates have visited the county during the campaign.

Trustees in several townships have found it extremely difficult to meet cemetery expenses because of increased demands on the general funds for relief purposes and as a result five boards have approved resolutions calling for a vote on special levies to maintain cemeteries.

With the exception of Bryn Zion, east of Mt. Gilead, each of the cemeteries is maintained wholly by one township. Bryn Zion funds come from Gilead, Franklin and congress.

A four-tenths mill levy asked in Franklin, one for three-tenths mill in Congress and Gilead, with voters outside of Mt. Gilead and Edison corporations voting on the latter. Rivercliff cemetery at Mt. Gilead is maintained by Gilead township and the two villages.

Other special levies include one for two mills to provide operating funds for current expenses; another two-mill levy to pay street lighting and hydrant rental bills for the village of Cardington; a two mill levy at Sparta for street lighting, and a one-mill levy at Edison for general operating expenses.

Because of interest in the gubernatorial and senatorial race, election officials are expecting a vote of approximately 7,500.

He will be back in Washington by Armistice day to lay a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb in Arlington cemetery.

Mr. Roosevelt will make his only pre-election speech at Hyde Park Friday at 7:30 p. m.

About ten days after his return to Washington the president will make his first Thanksgiving day trip to Warm Springs, Ga., in three years.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

SETS STAGE FOR PAYING $50,000 IN RELIEF BILLS

City Council Approves Sale of $80,500 in Notes to Meet Old Debts.

City council today had set the stage for the payment of $50,000 owed Mansfield merchants for relief bills accumulated during the past five months.

By unanimously approving last night the sale of $80,500 in notes to the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, council created a fund to meet the overdue accounts.

The sales had been negotiated earlier by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley who sold the notes to the bank at 3 per cent interest.

There are 13 notes, 12 in denominations of $5,000 and one of $500. Three are to be retired annually on March 1 from anticipated state tax receipts through 1942.

Kelley said that the relief bills probably would not be ready for payment before Nov. 20 because of the amount of work involved in preparing the vouchers and checks.

County Pays Off Notes.

County commissioners today paid off $12,500 in notes, representing the last of the county's relief debt incurred before the city took over the relief burden last March.

The amount, which was borrowed last May from two Mansfield banks and another in Shelby, was paid from the county's general fund, reducing that fund to approximately $7,000, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said. Interest on the notes for the six-month period was $185.92.

Notes for $4,500 each were held by the Richland Trust company and the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, Mansfield, while the First National bank of Shelby held one for $3,500.

While the county was rid of the relief burden, it probably will have to borrow again in order to operate until the next distribution of taxes, Wolfe said.

BACK TO FARM

Lucas Youth Jailed for Prank, Freed as Father Pays Fine.

After serving four days in the county jail for a Halloween prank, Russell Frank, 21-year-old farm youth of near Lucas, was released yesterday afternoon and went home to help his father with the corn husking.

Asserting that he believed his son had enough of a lesson, H. G. Frank, the father, paid the youth's $10 fine and the remaining $4.59 court costs. Young Frank had already served out $6 of the court costs.

Young Frank's two companions, George Green, 19, and Ralph Harris, 18, also of Lucas, fined at the same time, were still in jail today.

The three were arrested last Friday night by deputy sheriffs after they had built a barricade of corn shocks across route 39 near Lucas.

Council Committee Gets Question If City Should Use Weekly.

A three-man committee along with City Solicitor Marion D. Ward was named by Council President Karl P. Troll last night to consider the question of whether the city should insert legal advertising in the Mansfield Tribune, a weekly publication formerly a shopping news.

Those named to the committee were Councilman-at-large George Berg, chairman; Second Ward Councilamn C. N. Schultz and Councilman-at-large Harry Emmons.

The committee was named by President Troll after the weekly paper renewed its request for city advertising following an opinion rendered by Ward deeming the procedure inadvisable.

SHOOTS HIMSELF

Man, 36, Found Near Death by Railroad Track.

A 36-year-old father of three children lay near death in the General hospital today, apparently the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police said the man was James O'Hearn, 130 Harker street. He was found lying along the B. and O. right of way at the North Main street crossing at 6:30 p. m. yesterday, in a semi-conscious condition by S. H. Magee, 43 Buckingham street.

Magee, who took the man to the hospital and then called police, said he found O'Hearn with blood pouring from a wound in the right temple and a .22 calibre revolver with one cartridge discharged near the body.

Physicians at the hospital were to attempt to remove the bullet which they said failed to penetrate the skull from the man's head today. They reported his condition as "fair."

PUTS OKAY ON COLEMAN ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Council Approves Construction of Curbs, Gutters; Hears Other Petitions.

Legislation authorizing the improvement of Coleman road from Marion avenue to Euclid avenue by the construction of combination curbs and gutters was approved last night by city council.

The measure provides that WPA labor be used on the improvement which has been estimated to cost $1,200, with the property owners' share figured at $1,176 and the city's share of $24, to be paid from the gasoline tax fund.

The street committee, which recommended the improvement, also received three petitions referred to it by council president Karl P. Troll.

Ask Cook Road Job.

Chief of these was a request for the improvement of Cook road from Lexington avenue to Woodland road, in which 21 property owners asked for a 20 foot slag roadway.

Another petition was from property owners on Lind avenue seeking the improvement of the roadway from Glessner avenue to Ohio street, while the third was a protest from Otto C. Wittmer, West Fourth street road, requesting that the approach to his garage on a Willis street property be improved since it was left unfinished following a street improvement recently.

The street committee also had before it a request from George W. Stephens, president of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, for the vacation of a six-foot path through its property from Newman street to the Erie railroad, which has been maintained since the abandonment of Surry road several years ago.

Appearing before council, Stephens said the firm contemplated further additions to its plant just north of the present site and asked that the pathway be vacated asserting it was no longer used.

Cellar Problem Again.

The problem of flooded cellars again made its appearance in council in the form of a petition from property owners in the vicinity of South Main street, south of Lexington avenue, asking that immediate steps be taken to correct the sewer condition in the neighborhood which was causing storm waters to back up in their cellars during rainy weather.

The petition was referred to the sewer committee.

The light committee was given a request from property owners on Walter avenue seeking the installation of a street light on the street between Sturges avenue and Wood street.

HIT OPERATION OF CITY BOILERS

Trade Unions' Complaint Filed With Council, Criticizes Part-Time Tending.

Council's finance committee had before it today a complaint filed with the civil service commission by Mansfield trade unions, criticizing the operation of steam boilers at the city building.

The complaint was referred to the committee at last night's council meeting by President Karl P. Troll.

The complaint lodged with the civil service commission was forwarded by Atty. George W. Biddle, secretary of the commission.

Biddle pointed out that the complaint said "the city building, contents and lives are endangered" while city firemen, who are employed as part-time boiler operators are absent answering fire calls.

The complaint, Biddle wrote, was presented by a committee from the Mansfield Trades council and the Mansfield Building Trades council, consisting of B. M. Ferguson, Clarence Fike and L. E. Leaman, and Local 64 Operating Engineers of Mansfield.

They based their complaint on the fact that the two firemen who tend the boilers in connection with their duties on the fire department are not available for full time duty.

Also referred to the committee was a request from the staff physicians of the General hospital seeking to contract with the city for the care of indigent hospital patients during 1939.

In a letter to council Dr. Charles R. Keller, treasurer for the staff physicians, asked for a renewal of present contract under which the city is paying $5,000 annually to staff physicians for care of indigent hospital patients.

Dr. Keller pointed out that the present agreement was about to terminate and asked for immediate attention to the matter of a new contract before Jan. 1.

UNFAIR, MORGAN COMPANY SAYS OF SEC REPORT

Defends Brother of Whitney for Silence on Brokerage Business Failure.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—J. P. Morgan and company answered the securities and exchange commission's criticism of Thomas W. Lamont and George Whitney today with the charge that the SEC report on the failure of Richard Whitney was "unfair and unwarranted."

The SEC closed its investigation of the failure of Richard Whitney's brokerage business with a sharp rebuke to Whitney's brother, George, and Lamont, both partners of Morgan and company, for permitting the former president of the New York stock exchange to "hide his misdeeds behind an unwritten code of silence."

In the final portion of its report on the case the commission contended that "had it not been for their silence and inaction," Richard Whitney could not have continued in business for months after his misconduct had become known to them.

Holds Acts Justified.

In a formal statement issued in New York, the Morgan company replied that "George Whitney did what any brother would do" and that "Lamont did what a friend and partner should have done—lent George Whitney temporarily the cash to make restitution possible."

The SEC's report said that even if the fact that George and Richard Whitney are brothers could be regarded as "an adequate explanation" of George's silence, "it was not present in the case of Mr. Lamont who was in no wise related to Richard Whitney and had none but business contacts with him."

Richard Whitney is serving an indeterminate term of from five to 10 years in Sing Sing prison for grand larceny. But since his trial the SEC and the stock exchange have worked out a joint program designed to prevent a repetition of circumstances which led to the failure of Whitney's firm and to provide greater safeguards for brokerage customers.

The commission cited testimony that George Whitney borrowed $1,082,000 from Lamont because his brother was in a "serious jam." Yet, the SEC said, Lamont considered as "entirely proper" his failure to advise exchange officials of Richard Whitney's criminal conduct. Even J. P. Morgan, head of the international banking firm bearing his name, testified, the commission observed, that had he known of the unlawful acts he would not have reported them.

TROOPS GIVEN STRIKE ORDERS

Davey Warns CIO He'll Act in Tobacco Plant Dispute at Middletown.

Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson and Col. Robert Haubrich, are now in Middletown.

"Ohio will continue to stand for law and order as long as I remain governor," Davey said. "We will not permit the lawless invasion of Middletown or any other community.

"Nothing has ever faced the state of Ohio as serious from the standpoint of peace and safety as the brutal, lawless and tyrannical invasion of this state by the CIO high command. They terrorize whole communities, thumb their nose at the laws and the courts, resort to the brutal beating of innocent citizens, and do not hesitate to used guns and dynamite wherever they think it is necessary.

"We are informed by usually reliable sources, that CIO plans a campaign of violent strikes after the present governor retires from office. Their leaders are reported to have said that they must not do anything until after the first of the year.

"A strike of serious proportions is planned for the rubber industry in Akron, although there seems to be no fair basis for it. Other violent strikes have been planned for the Fisher body plant in Cleveland, and other automobile accessory plants in various cities."

Davey said that he "feared" for the country "if John Lewis (CIO chieftain) gets a complete strangle-hold on our industrial life, and makes American labor vassals to his attempted dictatorship."

CIO Director Denies 'Lawless Invasion.'

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Paul W. Fuller, regional CIO director here, said today "there's no word of truth" in the statement of Gov. Martin L. Davey that a "lawless invasion of Middletown" was planned in the P. Lorillard plant strike.

"Certainly no arms of any description are intended to be brought into the strike, and no such plans have been discussed. "It's all so absurd that there's no use discussing it," Fuller asserted.

Police Guard Republic Plant.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Police squads stood on guard today at the Upson division of the Republic Steel corporation as 150 CIO members passed through a picket line of the employe representative group.

Police said there was no disorder as the CIO men, armed with company pass cards, sought to regain posts they left during the "little steel" strike of June, 1937.

A. C. Wick, president of the Upson union, said his group had thrown up a picket line as a form of "protest to register our complaint against the labor board's (reinstatement) decision."

Wick claimed a membership of 800 out of 900 workers and said his group "would not stand for dictation from any minority group."

Planned Output Increased, Buick Hikes Operations

FLINT, Mich.—(INS)—A capacity production program for the next two months was ordered by the Buick division of General Motors corporation today to step up production sufficiently to meet a 50,000-car increase in planned output of 1939 models.

The plan calls for production of 56,000 cars before the end of the year and a total of 260,000 units for the full model year.

Division President Harlow W. Curtice announced the program, saying:

"The next two months will see the Buick plants in Flint operating virtually at capacity and employment at a peak for the year. Unusually heavy demand for the new models has necessitated further upward revision of production schedules and a revamping of our manufacturing plans for the coming year, looking to the output of some 50,000 more cars than were originally projected and a sales program contemplating a 50 per cent increase over the 1938 season."

NEW TALK WITH HITLER PLANNED

London Hears Chamberlain, German Chancellor Will Confer Again Soon.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Fresh talks between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler are in the offing, parliamentary circles reported today, following Chamberlain's announcement before the House of Commons that he plans to make the Anglo-Italian friendship pact effective without delay.

With the House facing a foreign affairs debate that is expected to thresh out the whole field of recent European developments and Britain's part in them, it is now regarded as a foregone conclusion that Anglo-Italian treaty will shortly go into force.

When this is accomplished, Chamberlain, as he indicated in his speech yesterday, will immediately take measures for the economic appeasement of all Europe. It is understood here that Hitler is ready to talk on this subject along the lines of the recent Munich four-power agreement.

The way for such negotiations was paved by Chamberlain's admission before the House that Germany is now the dominating force in Europe, and by his staunch defense of the Munich pact.

The contemplated appeasement is expected to embrace a large section of Europe, including the four nations signatory to the Munich agreement.

BUSINESS KEEPS UPWARD SWING

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The upward business movement evident in September extended into the second and third weeks of October, the Monthly Business Review of the fourth federal reserve district bank here said today.

The rise has been particularly beneficial to the fourth district in the past few weeks, the Review said, because so many industries in the district are allied with the automobile industry, which has shown greater improvement than was expected.

PARKING PLAN SIDETRACKED

Council Also Refers Proposed Ban on Sunday Beer to Committee Again.

The resolution claimed the meters would "entail unreasonable expense" to business people who must use their cars in connection with their downtown offices, that the machines would be a "detriment" rather than an asset to merchants because they would allow only a limited time for business, and that no "consensus of public opinion" had yet been obtained by council.

It also asserted that council "may be assuming a responsibility" which at some future date might not "work to its own best advantage," and that the machines would not provide for any actual increase in the police department from revenue derived from their installation.

The joint request by the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants association had pointed out that the parking meters would provide for a solution to the downtown parking problem in that the machines would cause a greater turnover in parking space.

They suggested that the revenue from the meters which they contend would be far in excess of the maintainance costs be used to employ additional patrolmen.

Council President Karl P. Troll turned the proposed Sunday beer ban over to the same committee that has been holding a similar request "in abeyance" for the past eight months. The committee consists of Councilmen Porch, Crum and Lester Hunter and will be assisted by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward.

CITY, COUNTY ACT TO LAUNCH $130,000 FLOOD CONTROL PLAN

City and county officials will take steps tomorrow to get a $130,000 county-wide WPA flood control program under way to provide employment for nearly 500 men during the winter.

Scheduled to start Nov. 15, the project already has been approved by the federal government. It calls for dredging of Ritter's run and Touby's run within the city limits, construction of flood walls along the streams, and improvement of drainage ditches in eight townships.

Twenty per cent of the cost, or approximately $26,000, must be furnished jointly by the city and county before the federal allotment will be available

City and county officials, who are scheduled to meet at the courthouse at 11 a. m. Thursday, will determine how much each sub-division will contribute to the cost of the project.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword said most of the men to be employed on the project will be transferred from WPA jobs in the city and county as cold weather forces suspension of projects now in operation.

At tomorrow's meeting will be county commissioners, County Engineer Sword, Mayor C. M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, City Engineer W. C. Statler, and A. M. Mock, WPA engineer in charge of the Woodland waterworks project.

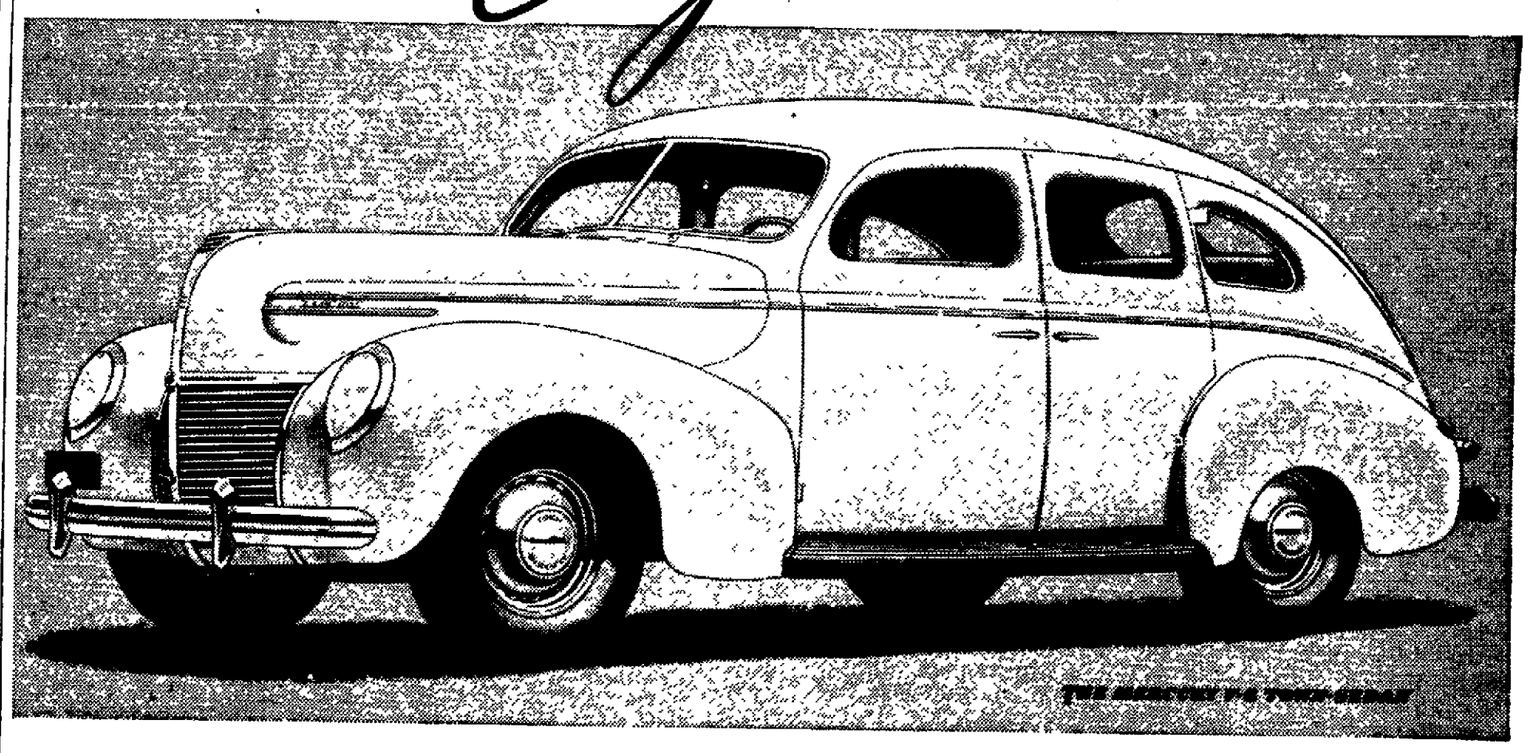
A NEW CAR JOINS THE FORD QUALITY GROUP

THE MERCURY

V-TYPE Eight

A PRODUCT OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY



For 1939 the Ford Motor Company presents an entirely new car—The Mercury Eight—designed to bring a new standard of value to its price field. Outstanding features are streamlined beauty—rich upholstery and appointments—95-hp. V-type engine—hydraulic brakes—remarkable quiet and comfort—116-inch wheelbase—wide bodies—exceptional room for passengers and luggage.

THOUSANDS of motorists, noting the extra value provided by the Ford in the low-price field and by the Lincoln-Zephyr in the higher medium-price field, have desired an equally outstanding value in the lower medium-price field.

The new Mercury 8 is the answer to that desire. It provides the added size and luxury that extra dollars buy, plus something this price class has never known before . . . Ford quality and dependability, with the performance and economy of a new V-type 8-cylinder engine.

It is made possible by the modern, progressive policies of the Ford Motor Company and its constant effort to give greater value to a widening circle of motorists.

The clean, flowing lines of the new Mercury reflect the distinction of the Lincoln-Zephyr — and, as every one knows, the Lincoln-Zephyr is now the accepted style leader and an example of Ford pioneering in original design.

The Mercury is a big car — long and unusually wide — with exceptional space for passengers and luggage. Three people can ride comfortably in both front and back seats. Head room and leg room are equal to that of many cars selling at considerably higher prices.

Because the Mercury is a big car, it is powered by a big 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine. Motorists who now own cars in this price field will be amazed at the brilliant, economical performance of the Mercury.

It is a remarkably quiet car. New sound-deadening materials have been developed in special Ford laboratories and thorough, scientific soundproofing by Ford engineers has reduced noise and vibration to a minimum.

Bodies are all-steel, welded into a single unit. It is equipped with hydraulic brakes built to strict Ford standards of safety and dependability.

We invite you to see the new Mercury 8.

TWO CONTESTS ON MORROW'S COUNTY TICKET

Races on for Commissioner, Representative; Congress Contest Interests.

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of stories summarizing the political campaigns in counties in the immediate Richland county area.)

MT. GILEAD—While Morrow county voters will look over contested state and district offices for the Nov. 8 election, little time will be required for consideration of county candidates as only two local offices are contested.

Burson Ulrey, Democrat, and George Thomas, Republican, are the only candidates for the office of commissioner. The winner will succeed W. J. Fulton, Democrat, chairman of the board, whose term expires in January.

Harold Taylor, Republican, now serving his first term is unopposed for a second term as county auditor, and Common Pleas Judge P. H. Wieland, Republican is unopposed for a second term.

In Assembly Race.

The only contest is for representative with three candidates in the field. J. G. Mill, Republican incumbent, is opposed by C. H. Patzer of Washington township and E. R. McMillan of Bennington township.

Mills who defeated Patzer two years ago is seeking a third term and E. R. McMillan appears on the ticket as an independent.

The race between Brooks Fletcher, Democrat, and Dr. Frederick Smith of Marion for Eighth district congressman is attracting considerable interest because of the strenuous campaign being made. Fletcher is now serving his fourth term and Smith, present Marion mayor, is seeking the office for the second time. He was defeated for the Republican nomination by Grant Mouser, Marion attorney, four years ago.

Abe Laird of New Philadelphia, and W. F. Garver of Millersburg, both serving their first term in the Ohio senate from this district are opposed by W. G. Nickles and Charles W. Matson. Little interest in the offices has been evidenced and none of the candidates have visited the county during the campaign.

Trustees in several townships have found it extremely difficult to meet cemetery expenses because of increased demands on the general funds for relief purposes and as a result five boards have approved resolutions calling for a vote on special levies to maintain cemeteries.

With the exception of Bryn Zion, east of Mt. Gilead, each of the cemeteries is maintained wholly by one township. Bryn Zion funds come from Gilead, Franklin and congress.

A four-tenths mill levy asked in Franklin, one for three-tenths mill in Congress and Gilead, with voters outside of Mt. Gilead and Edison corporations voting on the latter. Rivercliff cemetery at Mt. Gilead is maintained by Gilead township and the two villages.

Other special levies include one for two mills to provide operating funds for current expenses; another two-mill levy to pay street lighting and hydrant rental bills for the village of Cardington; a two mill levy at Sparta for street lighting, and a one-mill levy at Edison for general operating expenses.

Because of interest in the gubernatorial and senatorial race, election officials are expecting a vote of approximately 7,500.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

SETS STAGE FOR PAYING $50,000 IN RELIEF BILLS

City Council Approves Sale of $60,500 in Notes to Meet Old Debts.

City council today had set the stage for the payment of $50,000 owed Mansfield merchants for relief bills accumulated during the past five months.

By unanimously approving last night the sale of $60,500 in notes to the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, council created a fund to meet the overdue accounts.

The sales had been negotiated earlier by Mayor Claude M. Hunter and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley who sold the notes to the bank at 3 per cent interest.

There are 13 notes, 12 in denominations of $5,000 and one of $500. Three are to be retired annually on March 1 from anticipated state tax receipts through 1942.

Kelley said that the relief bills probably would not be ready for payment before Nov. 20 because of the amount of work involved in preparing the vouchers and checks.

County Pays Off Notes.

County commissioners today paid off $12,500 in notes, representing the last of the county's relief debt incurred before the city took over the relief burden last March.

The amount, which was borrowed last May from two Mansfield banks and another in Shelby, was paid from the county's general fund, reducing that fund to approximately $7,000, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said. Interest on the notes for the six-month period was $185.92.

Notes for $4,500 each were held by the Richland Trust company and the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, Mansfield, while the First National bank of Shelby held one for $3,500.

While the county was rid of the relief burden, it probably will have to borrow again in order to operate until the next distribution of taxes, Wolfe said.

BACK TO FARM

Lucas Youth Jailed for Prank, Freed as Father Pays Fine.

After serving four days in the county jail for a Halloween prank, Russell Frank, 21-year-old farm youth of near Lucas, was released yesterday afternoon and went home to help his father with the corn husking.

Asserting that he believed his son had enough of a lesson, H. G. Frank, the father, paid the youth's $10 fine and the remaining $4.59 court costs. Young Frank had already served out $6 of the court costs.

Young Frank's two companions, George Green, 19, and Ralph Harris, 18, also of Lucas, fined at the same time, were still in jail today.

The three were arrested last Friday night by deputy sheriffs after they had built a barricade of corn shocks across route 39 near Lucas.

Council Committee Gets Question If City Should Use Weekly.

A three-man committee along with City Solicitor Marion D. Ward was named by Council President Karl P. Troll last night to consider the question of whether the city should insert legal advertising in the Mansfield Tribune, a weekly publication formerly a shopping news.

Those named to the committee were Councilman-at-large George Berg, chairman; Second Ward Councilamn C. N. Schultz and Councilman-at-large Harry Emmons.

The committee was named by President Troll after the weekly paper renewed its request for city advertising following an opinion rendered by Ward deeming the procedure inadvisable.

Man, 36, Found Near Death by Railroad Track.

A 36-year-old father of three children lay near death in the General hospital today, apparently the victim of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Police said the man was James O'Hearn, 130 Harker street. He was found lying along the B. and O. right of way at the North Main street crossing at 6:30 p. m. yesterday, in a semi-conscious condition by S. H. Magee, 43 Buckingham street.

Magee, who took the man to the hospital and then called police, said he found O'Hearn with blood pouring from a wound in the right temple and a .22 calibre revolver with one cartridge discharged near the body.

Physicians at the hospital were to attempt to remove the bullet which they said failed to penetrate the skull from the man's head today. They reported his condition as "fair."

PUTS OKAY ON COLEMAN ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Council Approves Construction of Curbs, Gutters; Hears Other Petitions.

Legislation authorizing the improvement of Coleman road from Marion avenue to Euclid avenue by the construction of combination curbs and gutters was approved last night by city council.

The measure provides that WPA labor be used on the improvement which has been estimated to cost $1,200, with the property owners' share figured at $1,176 and the city's share of $24, to be paid from the gasoline tax fund.

The street committee, which recommended the improvement, also received three petitions referred to it by council president Karl P. Troll.

Ask Cook Road Job.

Chief of these was a request for the improvement of Cook road from Lexington avenue to Woodland road, in which 21 property owners asked for a 20 foot slag roadway.

Another petition was from property owners on Lind avenue seeking the improvement of the roadway from Glessner avenue to Ohio street, while the third was a protest from Otto C. Wittmer, West Fourth street road, requesting that the approach to his garage on a Willis street property be improved since it was left unfinished following a street improvement recently.

The street committee also had before it a request from George W. Stephens, president of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, for the vacation of a six-foot path through its property from Newman street to the Erie railroad, which has been maintained since the abandonment of Surry road several years ago.

Appearing before council, Stephens said the firm contemplated further additions to its plant just north of the present site and asked that the pathway be vacated asserting it was no longer used.

Cellar Problem Again.

The problem of flooded cellars again made its appearance in council in the form of a petition from property owners in the vicinity of South Main street, south of Lexington avenue, asking that immediate steps be taken to correct the sewer condition in the neighborhood which was causing storm waters to back up in their cellars during rainy weather.

The petition was referred to the sewer committee.

The light committee was given a request from property owners on Walter avenue seeking the installation of a street light on the street between Sturges avenue and Wood street.

HIT OPERATION OF CITY BOILERS

Trade Unions' Complaint Filed With Council, Criticizes Part-Time Tending.

Council's finance committee had before it today a complaint filed with the civil service commission by Mansfield trade unions, criticizing the operation of steam boilers at the city building.

The complaint was referred to the committee at last night's council meeting by President Karl P. Troll.

The complaint lodged with the civil service commission was forwarded by Atty. George W. Biddle, secretary of the commission.

Biddle pointed out that the complaint said "the city building, contents and lives are endangered" while city firemen, who are employed as part-time boiler operators are absent answering fire calls.

The complaint, Biddle wrote, was presented by a committee from the Mansfield Trades council and the Mansfield Building Trades council, consisting of B. M. Ferguson, Clarence Fike and L. E. Leaman, and Local 64 Operating Engineers of Mansfield.

They based their complaint on the fact that the two firemen who tend the boilers in connection with their duties on the fire department are not available for full time duty.

Also referred to the committee was a request from the staff physicians of the General hospital seeking to contract with the city for the care of indigent hospital patients during 1939.

In a letter to council Dr. Charles R. Keller, treasurer for the staff physicians, asked for a renewal of present contract under which the city is paying $5,000 annually to staff physicians for care of indigent hospital patients.

Dr. Keller pointed out that the present agreement was about to terminate and asked for immediate attention to the matter of a new contract before Jan. 1.

UNFAIR, MORGAN COMPANY SAYS OF SEC REPORT

Defends Brother of Whitney for Silence on Brokerage Business Failure.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—J. P. Morgan and company answered the securities and exchange commission's criticism of Thomas W. Lamont and George Whitney today with the charge that the SEC report on the failure of Richard Whitney was "unfair and unwarranted."

The SEC closed its investigation of the failure of Richard Whitney's brokerage business with a sharp rebuke to Whitney's brother, George, and Lamont, both partners of Morgan and company, for permitting the former president of the New York stock exchange to "hide his misdeeds behind an unwritten code of silence."

In the final portion of its report on the case the commission contended that "had it not been for their silence and inaction," Richard Whitney could not have continued in business for months after his misconduct had become known to them.

Holds Acts Justified.

In a formal statement issued in New York, the Morgan company replied that "George Whitney did what any brother would do" and that "Lamont did what a friend and partner should have done—lent George Whitney temporarily the cash to make restitution possible."

The SEC's report said that even if the fact that George and Richard Whitney are brothers could be regarded as "an adequate explanation" of George's silence, "it was not present in the case of Mr. Lamont who was in no wise related to Richard Whitney and had none but business contacts with him."

Richard Whitney is serving an indeterminate term of from five to 10 years in Sing Sing prison for grand larceny. But since his trial the SEC and the stock exchange have worked out a joint program designed to prevent a repetition of circumstances which led to the failure of Whitney's firm and to provide greater safeguards for brokerage customers.

The commission cited testimony that George Whitney borrowed $1,082,000 from Lamont because his brother was in a "serious jam." Yet, the SEC said, Lamont considered as "entirely proper" his failure to advise exchange officials of Richard Whitney's criminal conduct. Even J. P. Morgan, head of the international banking firm bearing his name, testified, the commission observed, that had he known of the unlawful acts he would not have reported them.

TROOPS GIVEN STRIKE ORDERS

Davey Warns CIO He'll Act in Tobacco Plant Dispute at Middletown.

Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson and Col. Robert Haubrich, are now in Middletown.

"Ohio will continue to stand for law and order as long as I remain governor," Davey said. "We will not permit the lawless invasion of Middletown or any other community.

"Nothing has ever faced the state of Ohio as serious from the standpoint of peace and safety as the brutal, lawless and tyrannical invasion of this state by the CIO high command. They terrorize whole communities, thumb their nose at the laws and the courts, resort to the brutal beating of innocent citizens, and do not hesitate to used guns and dynamite wherever they think it is necessary.

"We are informed by usually reliable sources, that CIO plans a campaign of violent strikes after the present governor retires from office. Their leaders are reported to have said that they must not do anything until after the first of the year.

"A strike of serious proportions is planned for the rubber industry in Akron, although there seems to be no fair basis for it. Other violent strikes have been planned for the Fisher body plant in Cleveland, and other automobile accessory plants in various cities."

Davey said that he "feared" for the country "if John Lewis (CIO chieftain) gets a complete strangle-hold on our industrial life, and makes American labor vassals to his attempted dictatorship."

CIO Director Denies 'Lawless Invasion.'

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Paul W. Fuller, regional CIO director here, said today "there's no word of truth" in the statement of Gov. Martin L. Davey that a "lawless invasion of Middletown" was planned in the P. Lorillard plant strike.

"Certainly no arms of any description are intended to be brought into the strike, and no such plans have been discussed. "It's all so absurd that there's no use discussing it," Fuller asserted.

Police Guard Republic Plant.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Police squads stood on guard today at the Upson division of the Republic Steel corporation as 150 CIO members passed through a picket line of the employe representative group.

Police said there was no disorder as the CIO men, armed with company pass cards, sought to regain posts they left during the "little steel" strike of June, 1937.

A. C. Wick, president of the Upson union, said his group had thrown up a picket line as a form of "protest to register our complaint against the labor board's (reinstatement) decision."

Wick claimed a membership of 800 out of 900 workers and said his group "would not stand for dictation from any minority group."

Planned Output Increased, Buick Hikes Operations

FLINT, Mich.—(INS)—A capacity production program for the next two months was ordered by the Buick division of General Motors corporation today to step up production sufficiently to meet a 50,000-car increase in planned output of 1939 models.

The plan calls for production of 56,000 cars before the end of the year and a total of 260,000 units for the full model year.

Division President Harlow W. Curtice announced the program, saying:

"The next two months will see the Buick plants in Flint operating virtually at capacity and employment at a peak for the year. Unusually heavy demand for the new models has necessitated further upward revision of production schedules and a revamping of our manufacturing plans for the coming year, looking to the output of some 50,000 more cars than were originally projected and a sales program contemplating a 50 per cent increase over the 1938 season."

NEW TALK WITH HITLER PLANNED

London Hears Chamberlain, German Chancellor Will Confer Again Soon.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Fresh talks between Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler are in the offing, parliamentary circles reported today, following Chamberlain's announcement before the House of Commons that he plans to make the Anglo-Italian friendship pact effective without delay.

With the House facing a foreign affairs debate that is expected to thresh out the whole field of recent European developments and Britain's part in them, it is now regarded as a foregone conclusion that Anglo-Italian treaty will shortly go into force.

When this is accomplished, Chamberlain, as he indicated in his speech yesterday, will immediately take measures for the economic appeasement of all Europe. It is understood here that Hitler is ready to talk on this subject along the lines of the recent Munich four-power agreement.

The way for such negotiations was paved by Chamberlain's admission before the House that Germany is now the dominating force in Europe, and by his staunch defense of the Munich pact.

The contemplated appeasement is expected to embrace a large section of Europe, including the four nations signatory to the Munich agreement.

BUSINESS KEEPS UPWARD SWING

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The upward business movement evident in September extended into the second and third weeks of October, the Monthly Business Review of the fourth federal reserve district bank here said today.

The rise has been particularly beneficial to the fourth district in the past few weeks, the Review said, because so many industries in the district are allied with the automobile industry, which has shown greater improvement than was expected.

PARKING PLAN SIDETRACKED

Council Also Refers Proposed Ban on Sunday Beer to Committee Again.

The resolution claimed the meters would "entail unreasonable expense" to business people who must use their cars in connection with their downtown offices, that the machines would be a "detriment" rather than an asset to merchants because they would allow only a limited time for business, and that no "consensus of public opinion" had yet been obtained by council.

It also asserted that council "may be assuming a responsibility" which at some future date might not "work to its own best advantage," and that the machines would not provide for any actual increase in the police department from revenue derived from their installation.

The joint request by the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants association had pointed out that the parking meters would provide for a solution to the downtown parking problem in that the machines would cause a greater turnover in parking space.

They suggested that the revenue from the meters which they contend would be far in excess of the maintainance costs be used to employ additional patrolmen.

Council President Karl P. Troll turned the proposed Sunday beer ban over to the same committee that has been holding a similar request "in abeyance" for the past eight months. The committee consists of Councilmen Porch, Crum and Lester Hunter and will be assisted by City Solicitor Marion D. Ward.

CITY, COUNTY ACT TO LAUNCH $130,000 FLOOD CONTROL PLAN

City and county officials will take steps tomorrow to get a $130,000 county-wide WPA flood control program under way to provide employment for nearly 500 men during the winter.

Scheduled to start Nov. 15, the project already has been approved by the federal government. It calls for dredging of Ritter's run and Touby's run within the city limits, construction of flood walls along the streams, and improvement of drainage ditches in eight townships.

Twenty per cent of the cost, or approximately $26,000, must be furnished jointly by the city and county before the federal allotment will be available.

City and county officials, who are scheduled to meet at the courthouse at 11 a. m. Thursday, will determine how much each sub-division will contribute to the cost of the project.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword said most of the men to be employed on the project will be transferred from WPA jobs in the city and county as cold weather forces suspension of projects now in operation.

At tomorrow's meeting will be county commissioners, County Engineer Sword, Mayor C. M. Hunter, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, City Engineer W. C. Statler, and A. M. Mock, WPA engineer in charge of the Woodland waterworks project.

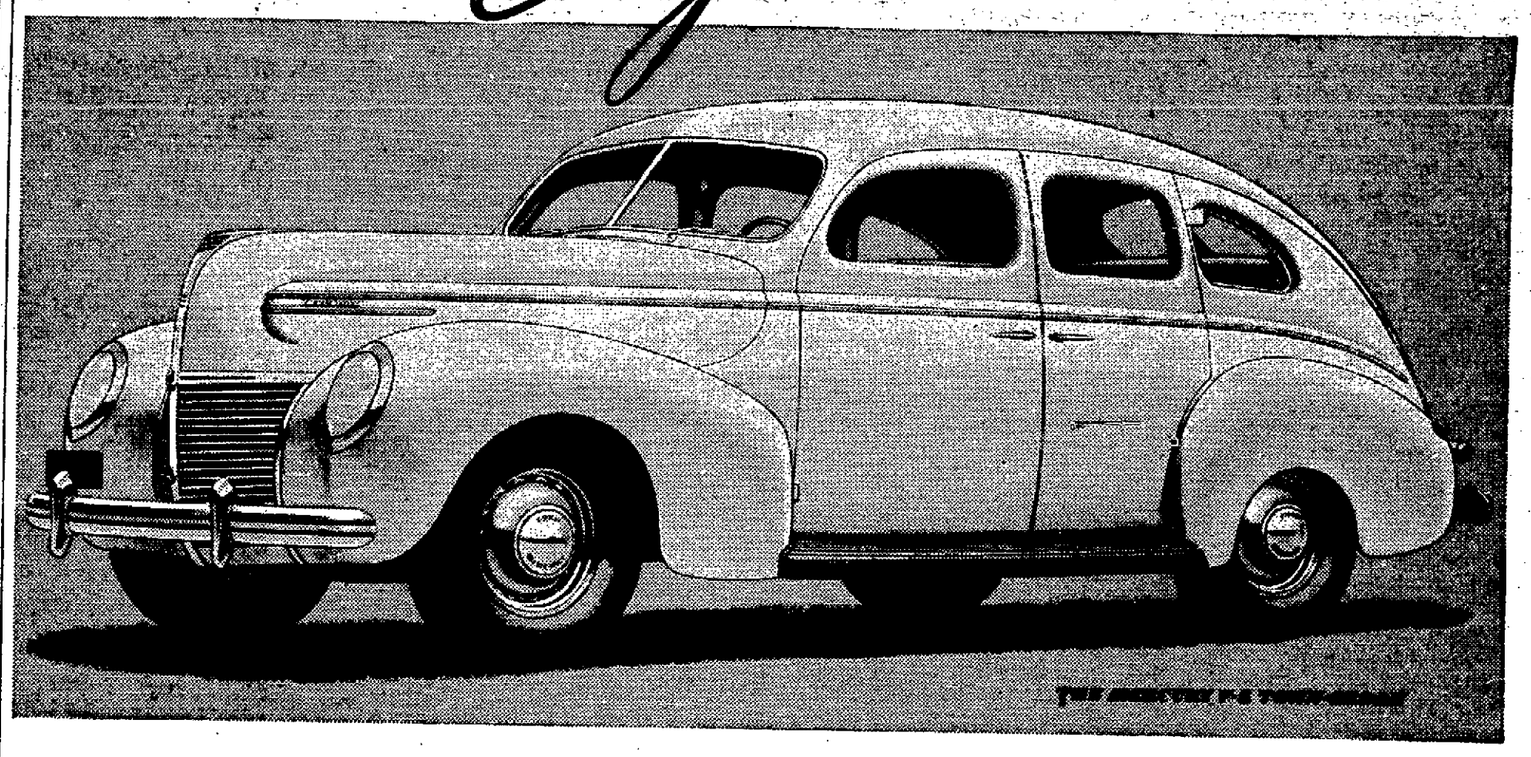
A NEW CAR JOINS THE FORD QUALITY GROUP

THE MERCURY V-TYPE Eight

A PRODUCT OF THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY



For 1939 the Ford Motor Company presents an entirely new car—The Mercury Eight—designed to bring a new standard of value to its price field. Outstanding features are streamlined beauty—rich upholstery and appointments—95-hp. V-type engine—hydraulic brakes—remarkable quiet and comfort—116-inch wheelbase—wide bodies—exceptional room for passengers and luggage.

THOUSANDS of motorists, noting the extra value provided by the Ford in the low-price field and by the Lincoln-Zephyr in the higher medium-price field, have desired an equally outstanding value in the lower medium-price field.

The new Mercury 8 is the answer to that desire. It provides the added size and luxury that extra dollars buy, plus something this price class has never known before . . . Ford quality and dependability, with the performance and economy of a new V-type 8-cylinder engine.

It is made possible by the modern, progressive policies of the Ford Motor Company and its constant effort to give greater value to a widening circle of motorists.

The clean, flowing lines of the new Mercury reflect the distinction of the Lincoln-Zephyr — and, as every one knows, the Lincoln-Zephyr is now the accepted style leader and an example of Ford pioneering in original design.

The Mercury is a big car — long and unusually wide — with exceptional space for passengers and luggage. Three people can ride comfortably in both front and back seats. Head room and leg room are equal to that of many cars selling at considerably higher prices.

Because the Mercury is a big car, it is powered by a big 95-horsepower V-type 8-cylinder engine. Motorists who now own cars in this price field will be amazed at the brilliant, economical performance of the Mercury.

It is a remarkably quiet car. New sound-deadening materials have been developed in special Ford laboratories and thorough, scientific soundproofing by Ford engineers has reduced noise and vibration to a minimum.

Bodies are all-steel, welded into a single unit. It is equipped with hydraulic brakes built to strict Ford standards of safety and dependability.

We invite you to see the new Mercury 8.

Re-elect Congressman Ashbrook, Disregard Party Lines

MANSFIELD and Richland county, as a part of the Seventeenth congressional district, are fortunate in now having in the United States Congress from this district a man who has not only served his constituents diligently and promptly, but who has also demonstrated that he is a sound thinker, capable of doing his own deciding on national issues and dependably honest in voting in accord with his best judgment.

The position of congressman is one in which intelligent understanding of legislative procedure, coupled with experience, are important factors—essentials, in fact, to worthwhile accomplishments for constituents and for the country as a whole.

At such a time as this, when there is so great requirement that future governmental actions shall meet tests of intelligence and practicability, it is an especially vital need that congress be kept as free as possible from faddists and visionaries.

It is particularly important that this Seventeenth Ohio district, made up of the six fine agricultural and industrial counties of Ashland, Coshocton, Delaware, Knox, Licking and Richland, shall not be permitted to suffer the stigma on the intelligence of its voters that would result from sending to congress a man who makes no other claim to competence than that he will work for passage of the Townsend pension plan.

There can be no denying that the nomination of Walter B. Woodward, of near Bellville, this county, was accomplished by many Democratic Townsendites who voted the Republican primary ticket, entirely in order to throw support to Woodward, after having failed in attempts to induce Congressman Ashbrook to endorse their "plan."

Without reflection on Mr. Woodward as a man, it must be contended that there is nothing in his record that evidences possession of any of the qualifications that are naturally expected of a congressman, and that this district would merit the ridicule that might be expected if, by any chance, he should be elected.

Under any circumstances, and considering only the faithful and efficient service he has already given, Congressman William A. Ashbrook deserves re-election by his customary impressive majority.

Under the peculiar circumstances injected by Townsend zealots it is made especially advisable for party lines to be entirely disregarded in this contest and for Republicans to join with Democrats in support of Congressman Ashbrook, so that the sympathetic tolerance that has heretofore been shown toward deluded supporters of the fantastic Townsend $200-a-month pension grab can no longer be mistaken for belief in the practicability of that Utopian dream, which would immediately place an unbearable burden on every worker and eventually bankrupt the nation.

A vote for William A. Ashbrook for congressman will be a vote for continued capable representation of this district and for a man who can be depended upon to actively support all sound pension legislation—as he has done for many years.

More Industrial Employment.

MANSFIELD'S substantial upswing in industrial employment, during the past month, coupled with other evidence of improving conditions in this city, justifies a feeling of optimism and also encourages greater determination to unite all civic forces in a program of further advancement—rather than that any backward steps now be taken.

Mansfield's industries, large and small, are determining factors in this city's well-being. It is the primary payrolls distributed to employes of these industries—the products of which are sent all over the country—that provide a large percentage of the money that is circulated in this community and that afterward passes, through various channels of trade, into more widespread use.

Careful nurturing of present industries, together with occasional additions of substantial new enterprises, however small at the start, is the only basis on which Mansfield can hope to progress further, or even to hold its own.

As matters now stand, even a slight further impetus to local industrial employment will go far toward spreading relatively prosperous conditions to a large percentage of the families in Mansfield and immediate vicinity.

There will continue to be problems of relief, and some unemployment, to be solved, as has always been the case, but these will be much less difficult of solution when opportunities for private employment are again normal.

Force for International Understanding.

BACK in the United States after two months in Europe, George C. Hager of Chicago, president of Rotary International, voices belief that international service organizations can play an important part in developing international understanding.

"From my visits to Rotary clubs in Sweden, Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Roumania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Switzerland, France, Belgium, and England," said Mr. Hager, "I am convinced that the peace of the world is, in the last analysis, in the hands of the individual citizen.

"The very fact that more than 1,500 Rotarians from 28 different countries met at Stockholm during the darkest days of Europe's recent crisis, and there discussed Rotary aims, one of which is the advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service, indicates that the time will come when war will be outlawed by the citizenry of all nations."

After imagining $200 a month for awhile it's difficult to feel satisfied by imagining only $30 a week.

Back in the horse-and-buggy days there was a pay-as-you-go policy—now it's borrow-as-you-go.

Anyhow, those political talks that have been coming over the radio are not likely to cause a panic.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—This story comes under the head of fun in the farm belt.

Farmer Joe Doakes of Iowa, an AAA cooperator, had 1,000 bushels of surplus corn in 1937 which he could not feed to his hogs nor sell for what he considered a good price. So he locked it up in storage bins on his farm.

Because he cooperated in the crop control plan, the government lent him 50 cents a bushel on the corn, which was the security. The loan was more than the corn would bring on the farm in 1937; it is more than it will bring even now. The present price at the farm is about 40 cents a bushel.

* * *

A Happy Foreclosure.

WELL, Joe's loan on the 1937 crop becomes due Nov. 1, so soon after that Doakes will go to the local loan agency of the department and say:

"I can't pay the loan, so the corn belongs to the government."

"All right," says the agency. "Lots of farmers are doing it that way."

In turn, the agency is not surprised when Doakes says:

"By the way, I can use 1,000 bushels of corn to feed my hogs so if you want to sell that corn to me at the market price, I'll be glad to take it off your hands, right where it lies, in the bins on my place."

"Fine," says the government loan agency. So Joe Doakes has in effect sold the corn to the government for 50 cents a bushel and bought it back for 40 cents.

* * *

New Crops, New Loans.

BUT that is not all. Joe Doakes raised another crop of corn this year and pretty soon the government will offer to lend him 57 cents or maybe 60 cents a bushel on it. He is to store the corn on his farm as he did before.

And what then? Instead of feeding part of his corn to the hogs as he did last year he will borrow 57 to 60 cents a bushel for his whole crop. He normally uses 3,000 bushels to feed his pigs but Doakes is no fool. He isn't feeding his own corn to the hogs when he can "sell" it to the government for 57 cents and with the money buy corn at 40 cents a bushel from a farmer who didn't cooperate in the AAA control plan.

That is what is happening in the farm belt. Those farmers who participated in the farm law crop-control act can get government loans. Moreover, the department of agriculture is quite willing that they should take the fullest advantage of the game. It serves the purpose of the farm act, which is to keep part of the crop in storage so it won't depress the market.

* * *

More Than Half Signed.

ALTOGETHER about 60 per cent of the corn belt farmers signed up to cooperate with the crop control plan. They will be able to "sell" their corn to the government for 57 cents a bushel while the 40 per cent of non-cooperators, who refused to reduce acreage, can get only about 40 cents a bushel.

Moreover, Joe Doakes and the other cooperators will get ten cents a bushel extra on part of their crop this year as a special premium for cooperating.

The whole thing doesn't make much of a price for corn but the department believes it will persuade more farmers to cooperate in the crop plan next year—if congress doesn't sack it.

Of course if the price this year were $1 a bushel, Joe Doakes would be the sick farmer. The non-cooperators, who planted unlimited acreage, would have crops to sell and Doakes, with his smaller acreage, wouldn't have much.

Many non-cooperators, it is reported back here, now are bitter for two reasons. They are envious of Joe Doakes, and angry at the farmers organizations which persuaded them not to comply with AAA.

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C HILL

THE newest branch of medical science is "bibliotherapy," or book cure. The doctor looks you over carefully, plinks and plunks your intellectual and emotional reflexes, and deals you a prescription for what ails you—perhaps a morning pick-me-up of Hemingway or a bedtime sedative compounded mainly of Marcel Proust and Spengler.

Dr. Gordon R. Kamman, neurologist of the University of Minnesota, starts it off with a report to the New York congress of the American College of Surgeons. He finds that the wrong book may be disastrous at a critical turn of convalescence, and the right one may make you as fit as a quarterhorse.

Necessarily, perhaps, we more and more ignore the Biblical injunction about not taking thought for the morrow—what we shall eat, what we shall drink, wherewithal we shall be clothed. And now we are also concerned about what we shall read, with regard to its nurture of body and soul.

* * *

IN THE "shape of things to come," there is surely something like this:

"Hello Joe! You're looking fine! Never saw you looking better. I thought they had you in for a long stretch in the hospital. How come?"

"If you only knew what I've been through! But, you're right, I feel like I could swim the British Channel—a round trip at that. Old Doc Dewberry sure gave me the works. I wouldn't be here today if it wasn't for him."

"What'd he do for you?"

"Well, it was like this. I'd been having those dizzy spells I told you about. And then I began to break out with a rash and every once in a while would start running a fever and my blood-pressure was up and down with my heart bucking like an old channel boat. They couldn't tell what was the matter and I became a celebrated case.

"Finally about fifteen doctors surrounded me at the hospital. They made a double row of injections on my right arm. Then they started feeding me this and that, the idea that when I ate what caused the trouble, the corresponding injection would blossom like a rose. They tried eggs and red meat and peanut butter and everything you think of. One old party had me smell some chicken feathers. He thought I might have some in the house and they might be making me sick. Nothing happened. None of these shots boiled up.

"Then they called in old Dewberry. He gave me another double row of injections on my left arm and then he brought in a lot of books and told me to read them. They were a lot of good murder mysteries. 'Anthony Adverse,' 'Gone With the Wind,' and I don't know what all. Again, no dice. Nothing happened.

"One day when all these docs were standing around, all done up in gauze and linen smocks, old Dewberry puts on his rubber gloves and hands me a book called 'Dodsworth.' It was a good yarn, and I was enjoying it, when I saw the doctors were all closing in on me, all of them bug-eyed with excitement. Then they all set up a yell:

"'He's allergic to Sinclair Lewis!'

"And, by golly, Ed, that was what was the matter. Injection No. 3 was puffing up like an old rum-nose. I have to take a shot of Harold Bell Wright three times a day after meals, as a tonic, but as long as I lay off this Lewis stuff I'm alright."

* * *

MORE power to the doctors if they can help "soothe this little crying baby of a world," and I certainly hope they can. They know more of the interaction of body and soul than men have ever known before. But I can't help believing that our road to human felicity lies somehow in simplifying rather than complicating life. I am sure that any enlightened psychiatrist of today would impound the Elsie Dinsmore books in a clinical library, accessible only to the profession. But we of that generation of haymow literati had to combat the menace of this dreadful little prig without benefit of doctors. We ducked Elsie and went in for happily extroverted chronicles of Jesse James, secret service agents, Black Bart, the pony express and what not. And that day had less need for psychiatrists than this one, hospital records show.

I counsel no brash layman's judgment on "bibliotherapy." But I do believe we were in error when Freud was unfortunately dragged out of the clinic, for vast public misunderstanding and distortion. Much of this soul-searching of today should be kept in its strictly clinical context.

We browse and experiment in gathering our physical and spiritual sustenance. It is the way of life. By living, we learn what's good for us or bad. I do not think that even "bibliotherapy" will change that.

A Farmer's Diary

A Homeless Chipmunk.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ON A quiet autumn day I was cutting wood, when without warning, I heard a crackling sound on a little hill to the west. I looked just in time to see the massive trunk of an old dead tree crash heavily to the ground. The branches of smaller trees near by shivered and swayed as the lifeless giant touched their outer limbs in passing.

I struck my axe deep into a log, and went to investigate. As I drew near I saw an excited chipmunk frisking about as though bewildered. When he saw me, he darted wildly into the old, splintered, hollow trunk.

As I approached the large, shallow hole the uprooted tree had left, I felt a strong restraining feeling, and hesitated to go too near. I paused and looked. Uncovered in front of me were the tunnels and well-planned rooms of a chipmunk's home.

He had real stores of food. In one separate bin, after removing some rotten twigs, I saw three full quart of my buckwheat stored, as bright and clean as in a granary. The next route led to a higher space near the surface, where a dry plump pile of wheat was hidden. In another place, I saw a half peck of acorns and some beechnuts. Just where these were found I would like to know, for I have not seen a single beechnut in our entire woods.

I counted four long winding tunnels leading to the surface, closed partially by bits of leaves and twigs. I followed another passage deeper down. After two feet or more it led to a little chamber about twelve by fifteen inches, with a springy carpet of dry leaves. From this cozy room the tunnels led to the storage bins. Here, I knew, would be the nursery for tiny chipmunks in a month or two. The parents had provided for them a model home.

Unfortunate little creatures, to be turned out now, with winter so near at hand! I wished I could have remained beside that crushed and broken home long enough to find out what Mother Nature taught the little squirrel to do.

Health Advice

Vaccines to Prevent Colds.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

VACCINES as a preventive of colds have been praised and condemned by one party or another ever since they were introduced. My own feeling would be that they are of no value. Then just as I am sure of that, I hear of some person who has taken a series of "shots" in the fall and has gone all through the winter without a cold, and I have to modify my position.

There is really no reason why vaccines should prevent colds. For a vaccine to work it must be made up of the dead germs of the disease you are trying to prevent. These dead germs, injected in the body, are dissolved by the blood and an immunity is set up against them just as if they were the live germs of the disease.

We can produce immunity to typhoid fever this way because we know the exact germ which causes typhoid, and because its chemistry is so stable that one set of germs will confer immunity against all the typhoid germs in the world.

Don't Know Germ.

None of these things is true of the cold vaccines. We do not know the germ that causes cold. We are certain, in fact, that the germs used in cold vaccines are not the primary causes of the common cold.

The common cold is probably caused by a filterable virus. After the virus has entered the mucosa of the nose, that mucosa is more easily invaded by a number of secondary organisms. Those are the ones that cause the secretion and other late manifestations. Those are the ones that are in cold vaccines. They may confer immunity to the secondary infections, but not to the primary one.

Perhaps, however, we have been going about the thing entirely the wrong way—by injecting the vaccine under the skin. Perhaps the place to confer immunity is on the membrane of the nose itself. Perhaps, if we create a local immunity in the nose, we can prevent colds and other respiratory infections.

Such an idea is suggested by Walsh and Cannon at the University of Chicago.

What They Found.

Working on rabbits with Type I. pneumonia germs, they found that by introducing virulent germs into the nose, they produced a fatal result in 90 per cent of cases. When however, they used a killed culture of pneumococcus Type I. over and over again, and then introduced the virulent germs, they had no deaths. They had produced complete immunity against intranasal infection.

The investigators are inclined to interpret these results as meaning that in many respiratory infections, the real immunity which prevents the invasion is a local one developed in the nasal mucosa. They conclude that "regonal vaccination would seem the preferable method of elevating the level of resistance of tissue at the portal of entry to the body."

All this is still in the experimental stage, but it gives food for thought.

Listen, World!

When the Spark Plugs Miss.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE KNOW so little about ourselves—and suffer such needless misery because of our ignorance!

The most stupid of us can understand the mechanism of an automobile or sewing machine. But when it comes to our own thoughts and feelings we're as much in the dark as our cavemen grand-dads. It doesn't even occur to us that we, too, are machines, and that it's possible to know what makes our own wheels go round.

Yet we are—and it is . . . And love and hate, joy and sorrow, desire or indifference are as surely mechanical reactions as the piston's plunge.

Here's Mary for example, badly worried. Everything's wrong, and she doesn't know why. She's living miserably, as so many of us are nowadays. All higgeldy-piggeldy—seven relations huddled in a shabby apartment designed to house three. No quietness or privacy. A constant racket. Everyone worried, irritable.

Mary's working. Not much of a job, but she could manage if she didn't feel so ill all the time. Yet the doctor can't find any ailment. She's "just dead inside." As if she'd never feel anything again. Once she was gay, lively. Now—nothing matters.

"It's the queerest thing!" she cries. "No matter what happens—I can't care. I go ahead acting as if I did but really I don't feel anything at all. Only this dreadful numbness. When I smile it might as well be painted on my face. And I have to pretend to be shocked or sad, for I'm really not. It's awful. Do people get like this? Won't I ever feel anything again?"

Wondered that yourself—haven't you? Gone through the endless blankness of sleepwalking days, wondering if you would ever come to life again inside. Yet you'd understand the condition instantly if you saw it happen in an automobile.

If spark plugs miss fire, you know they're clogged and that it's useless to expect action until they are cleared.

But emotions are as plainly mechanical reactions as the sparking of your auto plugs. There is, of course, more than mere chemistry involved—some higher dynamics which we do not as yet understand. But it all runs by rule as surely as the simplest gadget.

There are endless things which we don't yet understand about our emotions, but this we do know. The glands—many glands all over the body—are the mechanical source of our feelings. They are literally, our emotional spark plugs. And you can't get action out of them any more than you can out of your automobile, if you break the rules.

And the deepest necessity for any human machine is—privacy. Not snooty isolation, but some decent measure of silence and solitude. Noise and worry, vulgarity and fear will clog spiritual and mental plugs as surely as carbon and oil will clog the plugs in your car. And with the same result—NO ACTION.

If you're feeling "dead inside," that's why. You're letting some condition jam and paralyze the source of your emotions. Too much noise—too much pressure.

Get away from it all if only for half an hour a day! Find some place where you can be absolutely still . . . where you can forget everything including yourself . . . where the unseen, strengthening, cleansing forces of life can find their way into your clogged, depressed soul.

Do that—and you needn't worry. Life will take care of the rest. You were meant to feel . . . feel vividly, abundantly . . . and nothing but your own carelessness or stupidity can stop you feeling.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sometimes while reading in the newspapers the names of the first nighters who attended last night's premiere of a new play I think of that book which Thornton Wilder wrote, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," because this was the story of five different characters who, by the merest chance, came together on a high, suspended bridge at precisely the moment when, after enduring for centuries, it chose to fall, plunging all to their deaths.

There was another premiere last night, and so today, in a brief spray of type, set down for the benefit of those who like to follow the nocturnal galavantings of their theatrical heroes, were these names: Sinclair Lewis, Jean Muir, Sheila Barrett, Walter Huston and Brock Pemberton.

There the parable ended, for the only bridge that fell was the play, which was really no bridge but a turkey, as we say on Broadway, but nevertheless the individual stories of these characters are interesting. Let's check up on them:

* * *

FIRST comes tall, red-headed, good-natured Sinclair Lewis. He's a doctor's son, 53 years old and stage-struck. Wrote "Babbitt." Wrote "Main Street." Wrote "Arrowsmith." A Yale man and an editor. Recently turned actor. Married twice. He's a Nobel prize winner and lives in Bronxville.

Jean Muir is a young and, according to some, talented actress who was discovered by a Warner Brothers' scout several years back and taken to Hollywood in an effort to "out-Hepburn Hepburn." She is tall and very serious, and when I knew her as an intensely ambitious but inexperienced stock actress she used to wear tweed skirts and walk in the rain like Garbo.

Sheila Barrett can be cruelly sarcastic when the mood strikes her. She is probably the best known of our singing mimes, and, for my money, the most talented. Likes to refer to members of cafe society as "co-morons," because they frequent a nightclub named El Morocco. She's a tall, gay Washington lass who made her first hit by enchanting the students at dances at the University of Virginia.

* * *

WALTER HUSTON brought a wooden leg, which he borrowed from John Barrymore, to New york with him when he came back to town on a recent train. He uses it in his role of Peter Stuyvesant in "Knickerbocker Holiday." . . . Was a great stage star long before you ever heard of him in pictures. . . . Used to play baseball and his chief claim to fame, to hear him tell it, was an heroic swat delivered at a crucial point in the late innings of a game one blistering afternoon which resulted in a homerun with the bases loaded.

Brock Pemberton, a small town boy from Kansas who made good in the city, is a producer and a successful one. His current hit is that "Kiss the Boys Goodby" thing which pokes fun at the film industry and its search for a girl to play Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind." Another celebrated winner was "Personal Appearance," and it was the sort of play in which a passe movie star, desiring solitude, remarked: "Leave me alone—I want to commute with myself."

And there they were. Promptly at 8:25 the doctor's son, the girl who was like Garbo, the Virginia belle, the homerun slugger, and the small town lad from Kansas, sat down in their respective seats in a Broadway playhouse, wondering what the evening and the other side of the curtain would hold for them.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

By HELEN WELSHIMER

CHAPTER 25.

Bob Cushing was not writing a book. He had no wish to do a play. He might delve into biography some day. He took life as it came, laughed a great deal more than most people of his age or profession, and fell a little in love with Judy.

But he did not mention it, and she divined it in small things only. He sent her a flower a day in a small red box—one morning a snow white camellia; another, when he had just been paid, a purple orchid; once a nosegay of sweet peas.

He introduced her to others of his own group who welcomed her eagerly. She was busy with her work. Cordelli was considerate and appreciative. Her home was real, rafter and wall and hearth. She was a person in her own right.

It was Bob who gave her the next news of Ronald.

* * *

It rained the night that Bob Cushing mentioned Ronald. He sat in a great, overstuffed chair, long legs extended to the fire, hair bright in the firelight, and omitted his brows.

Marjorie, dropping in unexpectedly, sat across from him, the fire shades making her brown dress warmer, her chestnut hair sparkle. She had rung the bell just after Bob pushed it.

Judy was on a hassock, a green smock over her black work frock, a smudge of charcoal on her nose, for she had been working when the bell rang twice.

Marjorie and Bob had mounted the long steps together, looked at each other and laughed at their top.

Now, introductions over, they shared the same comfort while a winter rain beat against the windows, and the coffee pot bubbled on its small electric stove.

"You mentioned knowing Ronald Birrell, didn't you?" asked Bob.

"Yes. Why?"

"I know him, too," added Marjorie.

"Do you trust him?" The words were almost studied.

"Of course!" That was Marjorie.

"Anywhere!" That was Judy.

"There are forces that are fixing to pull his career down around his bright red head. I'm on a story to find out what I can. If you read the papers, you've noticed mention of it so I'm not spilling the dope."

"But why? What has he done?" Judy swung around, eyes wide with wonder, uplifted face eager and lovely in the firelight.

"Nothing, I hope. It's a matter of jury bribing—"

"He wouldn't!" She said the words with such vehemence that her curls shook.

"I didn't say he did, my sweet! But he's won five decisions running, every one on an important case, and there are those who begin to wonder. Oh, of course maybe the lad's a wonder, and I'll admit other men have done the same thing. No one would have spent a thought on the matter but a juror made a statement about a bribe and somebody did some detective work . . ."

"Ever hear about people being framed?" Judy asked, chin in her hands as she rested her elbows on her knees. "It's a word in any newspaper man's vocabulary. Couldn't that have happened to the juror—someone paid him to make that assertion?"

"Very likely. We've thought of that. Has Birrell any enemies that you can mention?"

Judy shook her head slowly. "N-no, but he may have. I haven't seen him for a long time."

(Not since that night I stood in the doorway of Mr. Heaton's office and he said he never would forget that I'm rooting for him. Never as long as he lived!)

Well, she was rooting for him now.

"Is there more to tell us, Bob?" she asked as quietly as though her heart was not rolling through hoops again. Why had she thought she was getting better?

"Not much. It's only recently that Birrell and the Boland girl became engaged, so that could account for the money."

"Do you know anything about Donald's background?" Judy asked. She told the story slowly, eyes on Bob's face, trying to pierce his thoughts, to make him see how improbable it was for Ronald to lie or bride or cheat.

* * *

When she finished, he nodded, shook the ashes from an old pipe. (Ronald had a pipe, too—he had smoked it that night at the cottage in the white woods. If only scenes wouldn't flit back like throwbacks on a screen!)

Bob spoke clearly. "I'm for Birrell. I hope he clears his slate. He's young to throw away a career. And for what? He's got brains. He could win his way without a crutch."

"I don't see how you dare to doubt him," Judy puzzled.

Marjorie was more understanding. "Bob doesn't know him, Judy. If he did, he wouldn't say that. After all, he has to investigate both sides."

"Let's declare a truce," the newspaperman said suddenly, "and all go to a movie. I'll run on ahead and hail a cab. Agreed?"

They went to Radio City because there was a picture there which all three wanted to see. They arrived late, so the second show was beginning. When it ended, as they came out of the building, they saw Ronald and Abbey.

* * *

Neither Bob Cushing nor Marjorie knew that there was any reason why Ronald and Abbey should not unite. Of that unhappy episode at the Long Island estate Judy had told no one. Therefore, when introductions were completed, and Bog suggested they drop around to the Cert room at the Waldorf, Marjorie seconded the invitation.

"Mind if I jump into a cab and go home?" Judy asked. "I have to be at the studio an hour earlier than usual tomorrow. And I'm not accustomed to late hours this winter."

They demurred but she was insistent. It was Ronald who closed the door of the cab after her and gave the driver her address. He said: "Are you sure you are all right, Judy?"

"Of course I am. But what about you, Ronald. Are you?"

"You've heard?"

"About the false accusations? Just tonight."

"Then you don't believe them?" He asked it eagerly.

"Certainly not! Whatever made you think I would?"

Cabs honked behind them where traffic was piling up. The driver lost the green light and turned around, angry. They did not notice. Here, where a yellow cab made an oasis, Judy and Ronald looked at each other and wondered.

Then Abbey called from the sidewalk: "Ronald, we're getting wet!"

By some strange alchemy Ronald might love Abbey for some reason which she could not appreciate, Judy told herself as the cab swept downtown. But he himself was honest, true, fearless. Maybe the gleam and glitter of a hothouse plant had swept him from his base, just as he had feared the lure of a title had been inducement for Abbey to marry Count Phillippe. Perhaps, in his struggling years of school, college, and the beginning of his legal work, he had not spent much time with girls, and did not know that womanhood was not always lovely. Even now Judy was ignorant as to whether the dog-stealing story had been told to him. She did not think it had.

Ronald had refused to believe that she was guilty, and she would accept his innocence, too.

* * *

Any day Judy feared that there would be an open attack made on Ronald. She wondered how he would respond. Would he keep his white banner blowing in the wind, or would he be hurt, so hurt he would hurry home to his hills?

The first hint of spring was in the air one late February afternoon when he telephoned her. She was at work, trying to help a dressmaker get the right swing to a crushed belt when the call came. She took the telephone extension from the assistant and said hello, her thought still on the silken band of ribbon.

"Judy?" It was Ronald. He spoke hurriedly.

"Oh, yes, Ronald." Her voice was low and surprised.

"May I borrow your apartment for half an hour tonight about 9 o'clock? I wouldn't ask but I need privacy and mine would be observed. I feel—I feel I can trust you."

"Yes, yes, of course, you may. I'll let you in and run around the corner and have a soda until you've finished."

He rang her bell at a quarter of 9.

THEATERS

ONE of the outstanding picture productions of the year will be "The Citadel," but it will be a difficult one to make because the book, a best seller, had millions of readers, all with their own idea of who should play what. Robert Donat, handsome and capable English actor, has been chosen for the role of the rebel doctor, while Rosalind Russell has the leading feminine role. Donat will be remembered for his fine performances in "The Ghost Goes West," "Count of Monte Cristo," and "Knight Without Armor." M-G-M is making the picture.

Ayers In Come-Back.

"Young Doctor Kildare" is something more than an ordinary film for it marks one of the most remarkable come-backs of a popular player in recent years. Lew Ayers, once a popular leading man, had gone down to obscurity before he got a chance to come back in "Holiday" and "Rich Man, Poor Girl." Now for the first time in several years, he is playing romantic leads again. The story is filmed from the Max Brand novel. It opens at the Ohio Thursday.

Ritz Re-opens.

The newly rebuilt and redecorated Ritz theater opens tomorrow evening with a double feature bill. The first show is scheduled for 6 p. m. Leading the bill is the popular "Judge Hardy's Children," with Mickey Rooney, Lewis Stone, Cecilia Parker, Ann Rutherford, and Fay Holden. A star-spangled cast, including Warner Baxter, Freddie Bartholomew, and Arleen Whalen, will be seen in "Kidnaped," the Robert Louis Stevenson adventure story. The bill runs through Saturday.

If You Can Take It.

If your heart will stand it there is a double dose of "horror" in store for you at the Park theater the last half of the week. The management is presenting on one bill the two outstanding "horror" pictures of filmdom, "Dracula" and "Frankenstein." Bela Lugosi is a crony of vampire bats in the former, and Boris Karloff is the fearsome creature created of lightning in the latter.

Murder to Melody.

A haunting melody is a cue to murder in "Mysterious Mr. Moto," which is one of the two features at the Majestic. It notifies members of a League of Assassins when to strike, and Mr. Moto, played by pop-eyed Peter Lorre, sets out to solve the mystery. In far more romantic vein is the tragic love story told in "Beloved Enemy" with Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne.

NEFFNER SEES 2,750,000 VOTE

Ohio Election Expert Predicts Record Off-Year Turnout.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — A prediction that 2,750,000 votes would be cast in the Ohio general election next Tuesday has been issued by George M. Neffner, election expert in the secretary of state's office.

If his forecast comes true, the issues of the 1938 election will draw approximately 500,000 more voters to the polls than in 1934, last off-year election, when 2,249,074 votes were registered.

The largest vote ever cast in the state was in the last presidential-election year, 1936, when the total was 3,044,099.

Most things will come your way if you go after them.

ENLARGED RITZ THEATER WILL OPEN THURSDAY

Seating Capacity of North Main Street Show Doubled, New Equipment Installed.

A new and enlarged Ritz theater will be formally opened at 6 p. m. Thursday when the hundreds of electric bulbs on the new marquee are turned on for the first time.

The theater has been rebuilt from the new front on North Main street to the extension of the building reaching back to North Walnut street. Its seating capacity has been doubled, giving it 800 seats instead of 400, a new "giant" screen has been installed, and a complete new sound and air-conditioning systems have been added.

Brilliant colors predominate the Main street front and electric marquee, while the interior has been finished in the more restful and subdued shades.

Continues Same Policy.

The policy of the theater will be unchanged with a contract calling for second runs which will bring the best of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, 20th Century-Fox, Warner Brothers, Paramount and United Artists to the Ritz a few weeks after they have appeared in first run theaters in the city, Sol Bernstein, proprietor, announced. The double feature policy also will be continued.

From the new front which will be Chinese red, Exposition blue and black, down through the long aisles, the theater will be a riot of colors. The enlarged foyer will be in a soft sand, with blue trim and rust draperies.

Modernistic carpet covers the foyer and the aisles. The interior walls are sand, with blue and ivory panels and chromium moldings. The walls an dceiling, have been especially treated for acoustics.

The seats provide one of the most unusual as well as attractive features of the new theater. They are upholstered in dark blue leather, coral wool mohair, with ivory army rests. They are of the new type which push back in order to permit persons to pass through the rows without other patrons arising, and then automatically spring back into place.

New Sound Apparatus.

The sound apparatus is R. C. A. high fideltiy, constructed especially for smaller theaters. The large screen is mounted so that there is no eye strain from any section of the house, and as the rear half of the theater floor is on a gradual elevation, there is a clear view of the screen from every seat, Bernstein said. Every seat is directly in front of the elevated screen.

The air conditioning system permits even heating in winter with the air constantly changed in the theater and cooled in the summer.

Enlargement of the theater became possible several months ago when Bernstein purchased the lots directly back of the theater, facing North Walnut street.

The Ritz theater was originally built in 1927 under the direction of the late Harry E. "Tim" Roberts and was operated by him for several years. Bernstein leased the theater first for several years and only recently purchased the land and building.

The Zediker Masonry company were the general contractor on the rebuilding project, with Silsbee and Smith, Elyria, as the architects.

Other concerns who took part in the construction and decorating of the new theater were Bauer Brothers, carpenter contractors, Mansfield Structural and Erecting company, Mansfield Lumber company, Voegele Brothers, W. R. Rhoton Air Conditioning company, Tucker Furniture company, Richland Shale and Brick company, Home Materials, Artcraft Sign company and the Ohio Public Service company, Cement Products company, Raby Electric company, Mansfield Plate Glass company, Superior Electric company, and A. ASHLAND — Floyd Slater of Ashland was in Samaritan hospital Tuesday suffering from a broken knee cap sustained in a three-car crash on Route 250, two and one-half miles east of Ashland, early Tuesday morning. Three other persons were injured.

Because of dense fog, Wallace Heter of Ashland stopped his automobile on the road and Raymond Swank of Bolivar, following Heter, also stopped. They were both struck by a car, driven by Slater, going in the same direction. The accident caused injuries to David Walen and Albert Brinkmore of Bolivar, riding with Swank, to Slater and his companion, Florence Davis.

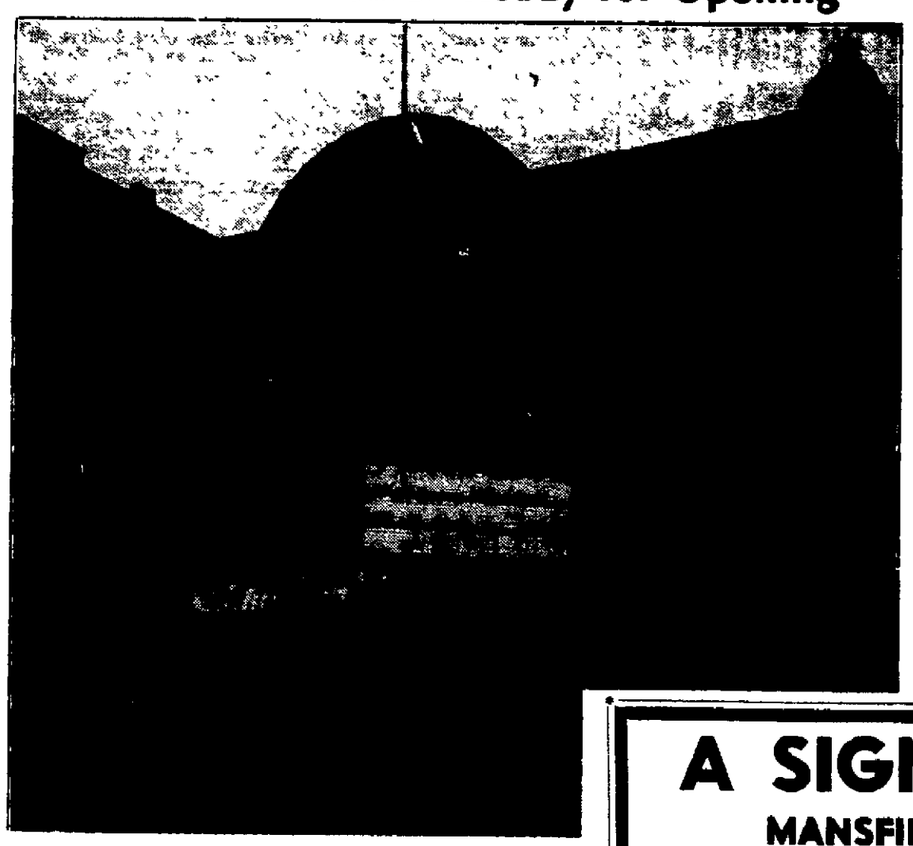
New Ritz Theater Ready for Opening



Here is an exterior view of the newly rebuilt Ritz theater which will be opened at 6 p. m tomorrow. In addition to doubling its seating capacity, the theater also has a new sound system as well as new air conditioning equipment, new screen and new seats.

ONLY HALF TAX RECEIPTS LEFT

Advances Against Real Estate Revenue Leave $236,000 for Nov. 4 Settlement.

With school districts forced to draw advances against the final 1938 real estate tax distribution, less than half of the receipts for the last half of the year remain for allocation about Nov. 4, Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck said today.

The settlement will total $236,508, while $565,158 was collected, Beck said.

Advances against the settlement, most of which went to school districts hard-pressed for operating funds, amounted to $328,650. Mansfield schools have used almost the entire amount due them, or $160,000 of a total of $173,644.

The city of Mansfield will receive $90,611, having drawn $35,000 of its share which totals $125,611.

The county has drawn more than $70,000, the entire amount due for operating expenses from the last half collection.

In the distribution next week, Shelby schools will receive $10,415; the city of Shelby, $13,917; Madison township, $9,961 and Madison township schools, $9,116.

DESCRIBES HOW HITLER GAINED SHIFT OF POWER

Knickerbocker Says Munich Pact Gave Nazis Material, Moral Supremacy.

(Editor's Note: How the balance of power in Europe has swung to Germany, following the Munich settlement of the Czechoslovakian problem, is described by H. R. Knickerbocker in the third article of his series on the European situation today.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK — Moral losses to the allies at Munich were greater than the immediate material loss, but the material loss was large enough to change the balance of power in Europe in favor of Germany. At one stroke Germany gained an instantly effective increase of around 800,000 soldiers for use if necessary against France.

By acquisition of the 3,500,000 inhabitants of the Sudetenland, Germany received an addition of 300,000 German soldiers. They are all trained by the French officers of the military mission commanded by General Foucher.

Worked 18 Years.

This gallant officer's fate symbolizes the place of "honor" in modern Europe. Commissioned to Czechoslovakia by the French government, he had worked for 18 years to make of the Czech army what it eventually became, a model exciting the admiration of military men from all countries.

When France by subscribing to Hitler's demands at Berchtesgaden defaulted on her pledge to Czechoslovakia, Foucher, active general in the French army, resigned his French commission, resigned his French citizenship, applied for and acquired Czech citizenship and was commissioned general in the Czechoslovak army. He believed he was about to help lead the Czech army in a just war, and though it were as forlorn a hope as ever man fought for, he wished one Frenchman to be faithful to his friends and allies.

Today Czechoslovakia, not fighting, has "gone German." What place now can be found in a Europe littered with broken oaths, scraps of paper, torn-up treaties, for General Foucher, who sacrificed his career, his citizenship, and was willing to sacrifice his life for honor?

By reducing the Czechoslovak state to a German dependency Hitler automatically neutralized the Czech army which when fully mobilized against his last month numbered not less than 1,200,000. Against them the German army had prepared to throw an initial force of thirty divisions, or around 500,000 men.

These divisions are now released for use elsewhere. Were war with France to come tomorrow, most of them could be put into the Siegfried line. Because now, in possession of the Czech fortifications, the German army would require only a handful of men to hold them against the remote possibility of a Czech attack.

That was one of the delighted observations made by the German officers when they for the first time inspected the Czech forts. They found that by only slight alterations the fortification front, originally directed against Germany, could be turned against Czechoslovakia.

They were also more than pleased to find that Hitler's calculations had been correct, and that the speed with which the Czechs had been forced to evacuate had prevented them from dismantling the big guns.

$125,000,000 Booty.

It takes a long time to manufacture ten, twelve and fourteen-inch fortress guns. It is estimated that the number of them in the Czech fortifications was so large as to represent the whole of about two years production of such guns in the principal German armaments factory, Krupps in Essen. These guns, together with the ammunition, steel installation, and other sundries in the Czech forts, represent a total military booty handed over to the Germans estimated at a minimum value of $125,000,000.

They are now free to be installed in the Siegfried line againt France. Indeed it is said that by possessing himself of these guns Hitler received as a gift from France precisely the number of units of fortress artillery necessary to equip that part of the Siegfried line which he was desperately hurrying to finish in anticipation of French resistance to his attack on Czechoslovakia.

The fate of the great Skoda works itself is no longer in doubt. As a partially state-owned industry, the largest industrial unit of any kind in central Europe, the Skoda works will now suffer the same fate as the Czech government. It must become a dependency and ultimately a possession of Germany.

Possession of the Skoda works will increase German armament making capacity by about 30 per cent.

Had it come to war between Czechoslovakia and Germany the Skoda people planned to blow up their plants rather than let them fall into the hands of the enemy.

Summing up the immediate and immediately prospective material losses to the allies by the loss of Czechoslovakia we find that Germany has gained in soldiers the equivalent of two of her own army classes; in fortress guns the equivalent of two years' production of Krupps; in armaments making capacity an increase of one third, and in general industrial plant enough to make the Goering four year plan leap many months ahead.

At last Hitler is beginning to prove that guns may really be better than butter, for his guns have proved to be butter-makers. For five years Hitler bled his country to make an army. He has kept the standard of living down to create the mightiest war machine on earth. For five years no profit showed.

Now suddenly in the sixth year the guns brought to Germany two fair new provinces, Austria and Czechoslovakia. They opened the way to the vast granaries of the Balkans, its oil and minerals, its timber and everything Germany needs. So long as they need never fire but only threaten, Hitler's guns show a handsome profit.

But what economic good do Germany's new territories do her? Where can she find customers for the industrial plants of Austria and Czechoslovakia? How can she turn her conquest into still more guns, and butter, too? The answer is at the same time the answer to the question: How is Germany going to become complete master of Mittel Europa? Must she conquer it by force of arms?

BUCYRUS—Chief of Police Philip Trautman is still confined in City hospital with injuries received Sunday night when he was struck by a motorist as he attempted to cross Sandusky avenue at Rensselaer street. Trautman suffered scalp lacerations and a badly bruised left leg.

COMFORT
And to Safeguard Your Health . . . The Modern RITZ
Has Been Equipped with the Famous
"KOOLER-AIRE"
AIR-CONDITIONING — HEATING and VENTILATING SYSTEM
The "Kooler-Aire" system does more than merely cool the air. You will note that there is no violent cold-shock as you enter, even on the hottest day. Nor is there a chilly atmosphere in cool weather. The perfect temperature for comfort and health is maintained automatically at all times. With a gentle movement of air—never a "draft" at any time—the theater will be constantly supplied with fresh washed-air which is 100% clean and invigorating.
